STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA

Office of State Tax Commissioner

CHARLESTON

To His Excellency,
HONORABLE E. F. MORGAN,
Governor of West Virginia.

SIR:

Pursuant to Section 5, Chapter 29 of the Code of West Virginia, I have the honor to herewith submit the Ninth Biennial Report of the State Tax Commissioner for the fiscal years beginning July 1, 1920 and terminating June 30, 1922. The report, covering the detailed information of the assessment and levies of the various taxing units of the State, is accompanied by a statement of observations and recommendations bearing upon tax matters and policies generally to which I beg leave to ask your consideration.

Very respectfully,

WALTER S. HALLANAN,
State Tax Commissioner.

September twelfth, 1922.

TAXATION

The power of taxation is a sovereign right essential to the existence of government. However, although a necessary burden, public contribution has never been popular. The publican, who was the tax-gatherer in the time of Christ, was barred from the temple and from the churches and down through the intervening ages those charged with the responsibility of assessing and collecting taxes have been regarded with more or less public disfavor.

Two causes are responsible for this hostile attitude toward the imposition of taxes. First, no matter how necessary or just a tax may be, its payment is not popular. Second, inequitable and discriminatory methods employed in the levying of public revenue have resulted in severe and harmful injustice. As long as human nature remains normal the first cause will not be removed, but we may hope to eliminate the other to a great extent by a continuance of centralized supervision over local assessing authorities and by the adoption of a system of determining legal values that will more approximately equalize the burden.

Taxation is a branch of economics and in some measure affects every citizen either directly or indirectly. Every tax burden reflects itself in higher prices, in higher rents, in higher cost of every essential connected with commercial affairs and living. Taxation should, therefore, be the subject of careful study on the part of every element of our citizenship. If my efforts to have all property assessed on the legal basis of "true and actual value" had been productive of no result other than an awakened public interest in the subject of taxation, my work would not have been in vain. The future growth and development of this great State depends in a large measure upon the ability of its citizens to recognize the necessity for a modernizing of our present tax system and upon their willingness to approve intelligent remedial legislation. It is evident to all students of the subject that many far-reaching changes must yet be made before the State can be said to have a consistent, well-balanced, modern, adequate and equitable system of taxation. We have veritably outgrown the limitations prescribed by our present constitutional tax provisions.

AD VALOREM TAX

Great improvement has been effected during the year 1922 in the administration of our ad valorem tax on property. The inequalities and injustices of assessment have been modified and corrected to a great extent by the splendid co-operation this department has received from the large majority of the assessors in its efforts to secure a more literal enforcement of the assessment laws.

The most important and far-reaching step that has been taken in West Virginia to secure a literal enforcement of our tax laws and to bring into effect an equalized and uniform assessment of property throughout the various fifty-five counties of the State, was linked up with the passage of the Sanders bill by the Legislature of 1921. It was the most important tax legislation enacted in the State since 1905 and in many respects was more potential than the Dawson tax legislation of sixteen years previous.

The Sanders law accomplished three distinct changes in our basic assessment system as follows:

First—The assessment year was changed from April first to January first, a very necessary amendment to our tax laws, in order to give the assessors adequate time in which to make an intelligent estimate of property values yearly and to carry out the other incidental duties imposed upon them by law. They now have five months in which to make their respective assessments

Secondly—It made the assessor's office a position of fixed responsibility—it provided that the assessor should give his full time to the duties of his position and keep his office open the full year, like other county offices, for the transaction of the public business. Very properly, it placed the assessor on a fixed salary, in lieu of the old basis of compensation, largely predicated upon fees and commissions for collection of various taxes. Under the new law, the only commission received by the assessor is that of ten percent for the collection of capitation taxes. I see no practical way to avoid this, if we expect to receive reasonable collections from this source of revenue.

Thirdly—The duties and powers of the State Tax Commissioner, requiring him to see that there was a fair and uniform valuation of property, were broadened to a considerable extent. Heretofore, the State Tax Commissioner has been made to feel himself little less than a "figure-head."

The law creating the office in 1905 had made him the head of the taxing system of the State and had charged him with the responsibility of "equal and uniform assessments" but he was wholly lacking in power to deal effectively with any situation, regardless of its aggravating features. In the distribution of the State School fund and in numerous other ways, facts came under the observation of the Tax Commissioner's department, which reflected the grossly unequal and unfair assessments obtaining in many counties and local districts. The Tax Commissioner was powerless to deal with these matters because of his lack of authority to reach them.

Recognizing the necessity for some remedial legislation, I asked the legislature to revise the act creating the Tax Commissioner's office and to amplify the powers given him to the extent that some central supervision might be had over the local assessors, and to the same extent only that the Tax Commissioner, as ex-officio Chief Inspector of Public Offices, checks up and verifies the records of the sheriff and other local officers, who are engaged in the handling of public revenues. The assessor does not handle public revenue—but he fixes the basis of property valuation, which is just as vital to the public good as any other governmental activity. I maintain that there is just as much necessity for supervision over assessing officers to see that there is no abuse of authority, as exists for a bank examiner to supervise the affairs of a national or state bank. The assessor who performs his duty under his oath will favor such supervision, but he who would serve special favors would naturally protest against any supervision.

Every state in the Union, in the administration of its tax laws, has recognized, without exception, the necessity for central authority to supervise local assessments. West Virginia was practically the last to take the step to correct the grossly unfair conditions that have been growing worse from year to year. The principle in effect in most of the other states of the Union gives to the assessing authorities of the State—generally a State Tax Commission or a Tax Commissioner—the authority to order horizontal increases in any county or taxing district where assessment valuations were found to be deficient. These increases are made by the central taxing body and carried into effect by such body. Another method of remedy—one which I believe to be more equitable and at the same time less drastic—was provided in the Sanders law. It gives to the Tax Commissioner the authority to appoint special assessors in any county where the local assessor "fails, neglects or refuses" to assess all property in accordance with the standard fixed by law. It is provided that notice must be given to the assessor by the State Tax Commissioner of his intention to appoint special assessors, setting forth the basis of the contemplated action, and if the local assessor continues in his failure or neglect to assess the property of that county legally, that it shall be the duty of the State Tax Commissioner to appoint special assessors for that purpose. Such special assessors supersede the authority of the local assessor for such time as required to carry out the duty imposed upon them by the State Tax Commissioner, but there is no "removal from office" of the local assessor, as has been charged by propagandists, who have sought to prejudice the principle, which is so essential, to a uniform, fair and equal assessment of property. It is unthinkable that the people of the State would desire a continuance of the old system that has permitted property in one county to be assessed at twenty-five or less percent of its "true and actual value" and another county at seventy-five percent of its value. Only the fact that the taxpayers generally have not been informed of the serious inequalities that have existed, has prevented a general rising-up in protest by those who have been the victims of our grossly loose system.

In 1905 when the Dawson tax laws were enacted, it was the theory that the State's revenues should come exclusively from indirect taxation and that we would reach the point where the state levy on property might be entirely eliminated. I believe firmly in the justice and equity of the Dawson tax principles and the theory as to the elimination of the state tax on property was adequately justified at that time. In fact, the state levy in 1912 was practically wiped out—it being only one cent for that year. But West Virginia is a vastly different state today than it was in 1905 and much different than it was in 1912. We have been making progress as we have been growing. The demands of our institutions have increased astoundingly. In fact, the state has been unable to provide adequately for the overwhelming demands that have arisen in the readjustment of our governmental activities subsequent to the close of the world war.

But, with the issuance of the Virginia debt bonds to liquidate our ante-bellum debt and the authorized issue of $50,000,000 for road bonds, which under our constitutional amendment, may be made a revolving debt for generations to come, which bonds, are backed up, as they must necessarily be, by all the property in the State, we face the certainty of a state levy to cover interest and sinking fund charges on those bonds for a generation to come. Likewise, do we face the necessity of raising six and a half million dollars for the erection of the new state capitol building. With the certainty of a state levy before us we cannot tolerate a system that has permitted of gross inequalities in the assessment of property throughout the various counties of the State. The law fixes the standard to be followed but there has been a wilful evasion in the enforcement of it—each county competing with the other to hold down its property assessment. Last year we found valuations on the “true and actual value” basis, as fixed by the law of the State, ranging from 23 percent to 87 percent. The enforcement of our assessment system has been little less than criminal because of the lack of equality. I maintain that each taxpayer within the State is entitled to know when he pays his tax ticket that the taxpayers in other counties are paying on the same basis of assessment. That has not been true heretofore.

Much yet remains to be done in perfecting a fair degree of equality in the assessment of property and undoubtedly it will require several years of effort, supported by vigorous administration to place all of our varied classes of property on a strict basis of equality. West Virginia with its coal resources, its oil and gas and lumber wealth, its horticultural and agricultural lands and its great manufacturing wealth is a state of such varied classes of property as to make it a tremendous task to carry out a program of uniform and equal valuations. We have made a good start—but that is all—the work must be continued to a successful conclusion through close application and hearty co-operation.

There is much evidence on all hands of the great change that has been wrought in public opinion. At the outset the public mind was made antagonistic from the misunderstandings and misapprehensions concerning the purposes underlying the plan. But there has been a remarkable change in the public mind and today we find the average taxpayer prepared to accept a valuation of his property on the legal basis and without protest. It is recognized that there must be only one standard in order to insure uniformity and that standard must be that fixed by our laws.

During the first year of the administration of the new law, regulating our assessment of property, it was found necessary, only in one instance, to invoke the authority for the appointment of special assessors. That was in Fayette County—one of the wealthy counties of Southern West Virginia—and a county that received from the State for the year of 1921 one-eighth of the total School Aid fund. Investigation showed unequal and inadequate assessments, and a newly-appointed assessor, named to fill a vacancy in the office, refused to give consideration to the program of revised valuations, based on the legal standard. In fact, his assessment of personal property had reduced the valuation of that class of property three and a quarter million dollars over the previous year. The situation could not be dealt with in any other method than through the appointment of special assessors. Other counties were pursuing the program of property re-valuation with vigor and determination while Fayette County would have fallen far behind its old valuation, which was grossly inadequate, if no remedy had been applied.

Although resistance was made to the appointment of special assessors, and the legal issue was raised as to the constitutionality of the act, clothing the State Tax Commissioner with broader powers, the Supreme Court of the State very promptly and by unanimous decision sustained the act and compelled a compliance with the Tax Commissioner's Order.

There is no public issue more important than the issue of a more equal and less oppressive burden of taxation. Our system calls for an assessment made by a different assessor in each of the fifty-five counties of the State. In order that uniformity might exist, each assessor, were he left to his own resources, would need to be an expert in values on every class of property in his jurisdiction. Such knowledge is given to but few men and therefore this department, having been authorized through legislation, employed experts to advise with the assessors and to assist them in their work. Assessors from counties in which similar properties lay were called together in group meetings, at which systems were devised whereby uniformity of assessments on properties within the same class might become possible. Splendid results have been obtained and while there are many problems yet unsolved, I say with confidence that the people of this State have less cause for complaint this year, with respect to inequality and injustice of the tax burden, than for many years past and that no state of the United States operating under the ad valorem system can point to a fairer assessment than that of West Virginia.

CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITATION OF LEVIES

Constant fear was expressed throughout the State that "true and actual value" assessments without further restriction on the various levying bodies would result in increased burdens. I recognize that until some restraint is legally placed on the various units of local government, a decrease in the aggregate of taxes levied must depend upon the willingness of these fiscal bodies to achieve economies in administration and decreases in appropriations. It is gratifying to note that the majority of the levying bodies took a wholesome interest in trying to hold levies down to an absolute minimum, but inasmuch as there are some few units of government that fulfilled the prediction regarding increased taxes and also since the personnel of the various fiscal bodies will change from time to time, I feel that there is a necessity for limitation of levies by constitutional enactment. Past experience has shown the futility of statutory restriction except as a temporary relief. A constitutional amendment is the only safe remedy, but while that is in process, we should have a revision of levies by statute that will protect the public from excessive rates based on larger taxable values. The ever-increasing demands of industrial, educational, charitable and financial development, support of State and public institutions, the payment of the Virginia debt and the State road bonds and the building of a new capitol, indicate that the increase of rate will become intolerable unless a constitutional limitation of levies is effected with a maximum low enough to insure a genuine and, therefore, equitable assessment of property if necessary revenues are to accrue to the various bodies dependent upon that source.

The constitutional requirements that "taxation shall be equal and uniform" and that all property, both real and personal, shall be assessed in proportion to its value to be ascertained as directed by law, and the statutory provision that such proportion shall be "true and actual value" have been so persistently and effectually evaded, and so much property has been undertaxed or not taxed at all, that drastic measures to check these evasions and more equally distribute the burden are an absolute economic necessity of the times.

With the proper degree of conservation in the expenditure of public funds and the efficiency brought about in the conduct of public affairs that is rightfully demanded by the great mass of taxpayers in the readjustment to a normal basis of governmental activities, together with a uniform assessment of property on the legal basis of "true and actual value," I am of the opinion that a maximum levy for all purposes of $1.50 on the $100 on property within municipalities and $1.25 on the $100 in districts outside of municipalities will be sufficient and I hope to see a constitutional amendment to that effect submitted to the people for approval by the next legislature. I believe the people of the State recognize the necessity of some general limitation on spending bodies in order to make our burden of taxation fairly definite and fixed.

NEED FOR CLASSIFICATION OF PROPERTY FOR TAXATION PURPOSES

One great source of complaint against the administration of our tax laws, is that real estate and tangible personal property has been called upon to bear an unjust share of the burden of taxation for the reason that the assessment of intangible personal property is very small when compared to the assessment of these other classes.

Although the evasion of taxation by intangibles is not authorized by law, it is tolerated under conditions that are beyond control and condoned by common consent because of common knowledge that the average income received by holders of this class of property is around 5 percent, while the average rate of taxation in this State is between 2 and 3 percent—to be exact, 2.26% in 1921. As a result of the collection of a tax of such proportions, this class of property is rendered practically worthless as an investment and a system of taxation that seeks to impose such a burden on this kind of property is improvident, ineffectual and unjust; improvident because it has driven money into investment in non-taxable bonds, thereby depriving the community of resources essential to its expansion and growth; ineffectual because intangible property is driven into hiding to such an extent that it might be said to be exempt from taxation; unjust because it reduces the earning power of such property to a little over 2½ percent and because an unnecessary burden is imposed upon visible property by reason of intangible property's outside investment and concealment.

An important consideration in connection with the proposal of a reduced rate on intangible property is the question of its revenue producing capacity. Unless it can be shown that the new method might reasonably be expected to produce revenue at least equal to that yielded by the old, all arguments in favor of a change would be subject to challenge.

We are not without evidence from which strong inferences may be drawn. Several states have adopted a classification system whereby intangibles are either subject to a lower rate than other classes of property, or relieved from the operations of the ad valorem tax and made subject to an income tax.

The mother State of Virginia fixed the rate on bonds, notes and other evidences of debt at 35c on the $100 valuation—localities being permitted to levy a rate not to exceed 20c. Money in bank bears a state rate of 20c—no local levies being permitted on this class of property. The State rate on capital used or employed in business is 85c. The rate on income is 1 percent on the first $3,000 taxable income and 2 percent on the remainder. The results of this policy have been very encouraging. The amount of income assessed with taxes has increased from $19,000,000 in 1914 to $136,000,000 in 1921; the amount of capital from $28,000,000 in 1914 to $141,000,000 in 1921; the total of all intangibles from $157,000,000 to $384,000,000 during the same period.

Kentucky, which has only provided for property classification within the last four years, found that under the plan of making money, notes and bonds subject to a state rate of only 40c on the $100, that the assessment of that class of property increased from approximately $69,000,000 to more than $321,000,000 during that period. Intangible wealth came out of hiding under a reasonable tax rate and the State benefited greatly by the increase in the assessment even though the levy was much less. Kentucky went ever farther in fixing a guaranteed rate of 10c per $100 on bank deposits. Money found its way into the banks that had never been there before. There was such a stimulation in business as could not have been brought about in any other way.

In the State of Minnesota the classification system has met with such popular approval, has been so generally successful in operation and has become, after a trial of nine years, such an intimate part of their scheme of taxation that, according to the report of the Minnesota Tax Commission, it never will be abandoned while ad valorem taxation prevails in its present form.

In the year 1921 in our own State $99,973,834.00 intangibles were taxed. At the average rate of $2.26 this property would yield a revenue of $2,259,408.65. This class of property is invariably found in taxing jurisdictions which impose the smallest rates and, therefore, in estimating the financial results of a reduced rate, allowance should be made for the probability that intangibles paid upon an average somewhat less than the average rate of taxation in the State, thereby actually yielding less revenue than the above calculation would indicate.

I believe that I would be placing a conservative estimate on the amount of intangible personal property owned in this State were I to assume that it equals the value of real estate. Investigations in Massachusetts have shown that the taxable intangible property exceeds the value of real estate by from 10 to 50 percent. One tax authority in Maine says: "I should not be surprised if the ownership of intangible property equals the entire ownership of all other kinds of property." For the purpose of showing what the outcome of a lower rate on intangibles would be, let me assume various ratios of intangibles to real property. I have already shown that it has been the experience of other states that this class of property will voluntarily respond to either the flat rate tax or the equivalent income tax. Unofficial figures indicate that our real estate valuation in 1922 is $1,208,796,358. The following table will show what the yield in revenue would be with intangibles returned at 50, 75 and 100 percent of real estate values and at rates of 50, 60 and 70 cents on the $100 valuations:

RATE OF LEVY	Yield where the Ratio of Intangible to Real Property is:
	50%	75%	100%
.50	$ 3,021,991	$ 4,532,987	$ 6,043,982
.60	3,826,389	5,439,584	7,252,778
.70	4,230,787	6,346,181	8,461,574

The average rate in West Virginia is so high that it absorbs about 50 percent of the income derived from the intangibles taxed and the disposition to secrete or remove this property from the reach of assessment is a logical result. Such action is not conducive to good citizenship but the penalty placed upon integrity is so high and the premium put upon perjury so great that the public conscience has become debauched. It is the experience of every State in the Union that there is a limit to the rate of taxing intangible property, beyond which the property disappears, and the revenue that a fair rate would otherwise produce is substantially lost.

I believe that a calm and dispassionate consideration of this subject, with partisan and factional prejudice forgotten, will result in the conclusion that constitutional provision must of necessity come that will permit of the classification of property for taxation purposes and I hope to see such an amendment submitted for approval along with that suggested for a limitation of levies.

COMPARISON OF 1922 VALUATIONS WITH THOSE OF 1921

Although the present report only covers the years 1920 and 1921, this discussion is based on the most recent developments in the field of taxation. The splendid co-operation rendered this department by the assessors almost without exception and culminating with a supreme effort in 1922, has been productive of such commendable results that I have inserted a table of comparative 1922 and 1921 values. In justice to those assessors who made active efforts in 1921 in response to my advocacy of a literal application of the "true and actual value" standard of valuation, and whose counties therefore do not appear among the leaders in increased valuation this year, I have added a table showing 1921 and 1920 comparative values for Barbour, Boone, Lewis, Mingo, Nicholas, Preston and Wyoming counties.

GASOLINE SALES TAX RECOMMENDED

The increased burdens of governmental support, arising largely from our school expansion program and the building of public highways, to which I have already referred, necessarily and logically leads to search for new sources of income in order that the rate on real estate and personal property shall not become intolerable.

One of the heaviest drains on our resources is the extensive development of our public highways. No class of people will benefit more from these improvements than the owners of motor driven vehicles. A tax of one cent per gallon on gasoline is now in operation in thirteen states. Oregon has a tax of two cents per gallon. Our neighboring states of Kentucky and Pennsylvania have a one cent tax on gasoline. A tax of this nature affords the best practicable measure of the use of the roads because it makes possible the taking of mileage into account and in addition will reach the cars of other states operating in West Virginia. The revenue derived from such a tax should be applied either to the construction and maintenance of roads or should be placed in the State Road Bonds sinking fund. Such revenue will reduce the burden on property generally to a material extent and I recommend that a tax on gasoline of one cent per gallon be made a part of our system of taxation, the proceeds of which shall be devoted exclusively to our highway system.

I wish to make it understood definitely that my suggestion of a special tax on gasoline consumption is not for the purpose of adding any new tax methods directly but rather for the specific purpose of relieving property of a burden that it must otherwise bear.

INHERITANCE TAXATION

From 1887 to 1904, before the office of State Tax Commissioner took over the collection of inheritance taxes, and under the old law, there was collected for the seventeen years the sum of $55,765. The act of 1905, and subsequent amendatory acts thereof, broadened the scope of the inheritance tax law. The amendatory act of 1913 so extended the law as to impose a tax upon the transfer of stock of West Virginia corporations owned by non-resident deceased persons of this State at the time of their death. This provision of the act alone has brought many thousands of dollars into the State treasury. The sum of revenue collected by the office of the State Tax Commissioner from the source of inheritance taxation since the act of 1905, up to the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1921, is $3,059,089.90; and for the year ending June 30, 1922, the collections aggregated $601,805.39, making a grand total of revenue derived from this source up to and including the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, of $3,660,894.29.

By the amendatory act of the special session of the legislature of 1921, many defects in the inheritance tax law were corrected; the primary rates were increased one percent; a new class of beneficiaries consisting of strangers, non-resident, religious, educational, charitable, etc., institutions was provided and the primary rate of such additional new class of beneficiaries was fixed at ten per centum. The inheritance tax rates increase by a uniform sliding schedule according to the amount of beneficial interest received. In other words, the law taxes the beneficial interest by a uniform schedule of rates as a unit and not the estate as a unit. A single beneficial interest seldom exceeds $100,000, hence the primary rate and the first rate above the primary rate are most used. The law as amended by the 1921 acts will materially increase the revenue from this source and yet its application is not severe when properly analyzed and understood. The law was further amended by the 1921 act, which amendment imposes a pro rata tax upon the transfer of stock of foreign corporations legally admitted to do business in West Virginia owned by a non-resident deceased person, such tax being based upon such proportion of the stock as the property of the corporation situate within this State bears to the total property of the corporation. The success of this provision yet remains to be observed. The provision having become effective August 3d, 1921, it is yet in its infancy.

Inheritance taxation is now largely looked upon as one of the most wholesome and equitable sources of public revenue. Its burden is less felt than any other form of taxation. Every state in the Union, except four, has a progressive inheritance tax measure, and the West Virginia law, as amended by the 1921 legislature, has attracted wide attention from tax authorities of many states. The cost of administration of the inheritance tax is practically negligible.

OUR LICENSE LAWS

The legislature of 1909 (section 42-A, chapter 68), passed an act authorizing the State Tax Commissioner to collect license taxes from persons engaged in business requiring the payment of a license tax, and in certain cases issue licenses to them. Before the enactment of the law, one desiring to engage in business requiring the payment of a federal government tax would generally pay the government tax; there was more respect for the federal revenue law than there was for the State revenue law, insofar as the revenue came from license taxes. The act of 1909 has entirely changed this view of the State law respecting licenses. There is today as much respect for the license laws of the State as there is respect for the license laws of the federal government.

Under the provisions of the act of 1909 as amended by the acts of 1921, the State Tax Commissioner's office, up to the end of the fiscal year, June 30th, 1922, has collected the total gross amount of $299,792.78. The gross collections, which cover only delinquents, who failed to take out the required license from the county clerk, totaled for the past year $47,125.26.

West Virginia has been sorely afflicted with a class of questionable itinerant shows that sustain themselves by going from place to place and "fleecing" the public. These aggregations, which are popularly known as carnivals, carry and operate all kinds of gambling devices and other unlawful devices and entertainments.

Under our present license law, they are subject to a nominal weekly license fee. They have become a general nuisance in this State and in some of the larger cities have been barred from conducting their shows because of offensive practices. I would recommend that our license laws be revised so as to make the license fee prohibitive for this class of shows. The State would be made free, in this wise, of an unwholesome influence in many of the local communities. We can no longer afford to license this class of shows.

THE GROSS SALES TAX AND ITS RESULTS OF ONE YEAR

Up to the year 1914, the State of West Virginia derived its revenue for state purposes from three principal sources, namely (1st) a small direct levy on real and personal property, (2nd) the charter or license tax on corporations, based on their authorized capital stock, (3rd) liquor and other licenses.

In 1914 the State went into the dry column, and it became necessary for the legislature to provide another substantial source of revenue to provide moneys formerly received from liquor licenses; so in 1915 a law was passed imposing an excise tax for the privilege of doing business in a corporate capacity based on the net income derived from business transacted or capital invested in the State of West Virginia. The tax rate for the years 1915 and 1916 was  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1%, thereafter  $\frac{3}{4}$  of 1%. Collections from this source fluctuated to a great extent, the State receiving, in round numbers, in 1916, \$322,000.00; in 1917, \$500,000.00; in 1918, \$1,300,000.00; in 1919, \$700,000.00.

The Excise Tax law may be said to have been fairly equitable so far as corporations were concerned, although the State Tax Commissioner, who was charged with the administration of it, experienced more or less difficulty on account of certain features, such as the charging against gross income of extraordinary salaries; the claiming of depletion, in the case of coal mines and gas wells, in excess of the depletion allowed by the law; the claiming of depreciation by a very large percentage of corporations in excess of that actually sustained during the year, etc. On the other hand, from the corporations' viewpoint, the law was inequitable in that it imposed a tax on corporate net income only, while the income of partnerships, associations and private business enterprises escaped taxation.

Responding to the need for additional revenue and the general feeling that the burden of taxation should be spread more widely, the 1921 session of the legislature brought forth the repeal of the Excise Tax Law, the repeal effective July 1, 1921, and the substitution therefor of the Business-Profession Tax Law, putting into operation in the State of West Virginia what is generally known as the Gross Sales Tax.

This law is designed to reach every person, firm, co-partnership, association and corporation engaged in business in the State of West Virginia for profit and doing over $10,000 business in the State as expressed by the gross sales. It also requires a tax from those engaged in practicing professions in West Virginia on the excess of their annual gross income above $10,000.

After considerable experience in the administration of this law, I am led to believe that it is as fair and as easy of administration, and the costs of collection as low, as any law that can be framed to conform to our present State Constitution which provides, as to the levying of this sort of tax, that "The legislature shall have power to tax, by uniform and equal laws, all privileges and franchises of persons and corporations." I do not say that the Gross Sales Tax is simplicity itself, nor do I say that it is absolutely equitable, but I doubt if any law which attempts to spread the burden of taxation as widely as this law really does can be more equitable.

True enough, equity might prevail to a greater extent were the rates graduated or if a different rate might be fixed for practically each class of business. It is common knowledge that while one business turns its stock over say four times a year, another will turn only two or three times and still another only one time. The invested capital in one instance is low and the rate of net profit high; in another, the invested capital is high and the rate of net profit low. In some cases the manufacturers sell direct to the consumers—one turnover. In other cases, the tax will be cumulative for the reason that the manufacturer sells to the wholesaler, the wholesaler to the retailer and the retailer to the consumer. But, in my opinion, considering the low rate, the taxes of any taxpayer will not be so large, out of proportion and unreasonable as to justify the installation of a system of complicated returns with all the attendant confusion and costs to the taxpayers incident to their preparation. Simplicity in the preparation of returns is highly desirable. The taxpayer wants it. The State wants it. We have simplicity in the present law.

The tax is the simplest possible to levy and collect; it is so small that it may be absorbed as an overhead charge, similar to light, heat, rent and other charges of maintenance.

The taxpayer himself, if he so chooses, can make his return and he knows almost to a certainty what his tax will be and that when the tax is remitted that is the end of it—no bills for back-taxes, or to cover questions admitting of doubtful construction. The tax, so far as the State is concerned, is a certain and stable source of revenue. This, to my mind, is one of its most meritorious features and is quite in contrast to the fluctuating revenue that was produced by our tax on corporate net income.

Some manufacturers have opposed the Gross Sales Tax because of what they conceive to be a disadvantage in competition with manufacturers of adjoining states, but if these interests would look at this tax from the viewpoint of its being a franchise or privilege tax, the sales only being used as the measure by which the amount of tax is determined, and would then compare the amount of such tax with the franchise taxes of adjoining states—and this is the only correct way of viewing our Gross Sales Tax—I feel quite sure the disadvantage would not loom so formidably.

On the whole, I am convinced that the Business-Profession Tax has been a success. True, it has not produced the revenue that was anticipated by the legislature that made it a law, but that has been due to the fact that the volume of business for the fiscal year ending June 30th, last, has been decidedly less than the normal business in the State. It has essentially established the production tax principle in this State, in that the basic industries associated with our greatest natural resources—coal, oil, gas, limestone and other minerals—are classified under a distinctive division and are compelled to pay twice the rate imposed on general business activity. It is shown that for the first year of the operation of the tax, 46.5 percent of the total revenue came from the production class business. While the heavier rate has imposed no undue burden on our natural resource industries and they have been content to accept the larger tax rate without question, this act of the legislature has been effective in quieting the agitation for a special tax on this class of industry. It seems to be a very happy solution of this problem and at the same time has prevented a discriminatory species of tax burden on the industries which have made West Virginia a great and prosperous State.

In view of the fact that West Virginia is the only State in the Union which has made the Sales Tax principle effective, great interest has been shown by all tax students and tax authorities of other states and governments in the result of its administration. Many delegations have visited the State to make special investigation of our Sales Tax system and hundreds of inquiries have been received by the Department bearing upon the subject. Our tax has been regarded as a distinct innovation in the field of indirect taxation and the result of it has been under national observation.

From July 1, 1921, to August 15, 1922, there has been collected under the law the sum of $1,910,505.28, of which amount the producers of coal, oil and gas paid $888,318.37 or 46.5%; of this amount the coal industry paid $684,383.40, or 35.8%; the manufacturers paid $472,784.40, or 24.7%; the sellers of property, real and personal, $327,394.23, or 17.1%; wholesalers and jobbers $39,718.59, or 2.1%; banks and public utilities, $93,411.50, or 4.9%; and professions and all other businesses not included in the preceding items, $88,878.19, or 4.7%. This period was sub-normal from a business standpoint. Coal production was unsettled, and many factories were idle or at a low ebb in operation. Under normal conditions the law as it stands, in my opinion, would produce approximately $3,500,000 annually.

As is the case with most laws carrying a new system, revisions and amendments from time to time are necessary. In due course I shall suggest some amendments to clarify the Act and to make the law more equitable, as my experience with the administration of the law suggests. I am inclined to the belief that the exemption of $10,000 is too high; I do not believe any business of more than $5,000 per year should be exempted; that the basis of tax, as relating to wholesalers and jobbers, should be the gross sales rather than the gross profits, but as the wholesalers' profits are much less than those of the retailer, it would be fair to make the rate about one-half that of the retailer; that the tax rate should be slightly increased as to banks and public utilities, which at this time are not paying their adequate part; and that a more simple and less costly method can be provided for the assessment and collection of the Sales Tax as relates to sales of real estate.

In view of the fact that the Business-Profession (Gross Sales) Tax Law is being tried for the first time in our State, I beg to be privileged to file, at a later date, a special report containing complete statistical information as to collections and recommendations as to any changes in the law which may appear necessary or equitable.

STATE AND LOCAL FINANCE

The aggregate taxes levied and collected through the local tax machinery for the support of municipal government, schools, county government and state government in the years 1911, 1916 and 1921 were:

Taxes Levied By	1911	1916	1921

In order that the comparative increases in the tax burden imposed upon each one of these governmental units may be made clear, the following figures showing the distribution of the increase are given:

The Five Year Increase, 1911 to 1916

Total.....	$ 28,505,822	100%

From 1911 to 1921 growth in population in the State was roughly 242,600, an increase of approximately 20%. During the same period the assessed value of taxable property increased about 48%. The total direct taxes levied on property increased 292%. In other words, costs of government have been advancing very much faster than population or the tax base.

It must not be forgotten that a government, like any private business, has to go in the open market and buy its supplies and materials and that during recent years there has been an abnormal increase in the price level. It is of interest, consequently, to compare the increase in cost of government for the first five years of this decade with that of the last five years.

Five Year Period	Amount of Increase	Percent Increase
1911 to 1916.....	$ 6,333,660	65
1916 to 1921.....	22,172,162	138

From these figures it is clear that in spite of the phenomenal increase in the per capita cost of State and local government, 105% in five years—this increase is very considerably less than the general increase in wholesale costs during the same period. Moreover, the standards of governmental service have risen very materially. We are no longer satisfied with the same quality of public service which was acceptable a few years ago. Both our State and local government units today are rendering far more service and, as a whole, far better service than was furnished a few years ago.

It would entail considerable work to compile a list of all the things bought with tax money; the provision of laws for the preservation of life, protection of person and security of property; regulation of the complex industrial and social inter-relation of our citizens; the courts, police and national guard to uphold the laws; the elaborate school system; hospitals; penal and reform institutions; public highways; protection of workers in factory and mine; the battle with sickness and disease in man and animals; protection of the savings and bank deposits of the people and the hundreds of other activities which confer benefits on all of our citizens that could be secured in no other way, but which are thus purchased at a very small price through community co-operation. Experience demonstrates that activities of this kind once commenced and established are deemed necessary and indispensable.

I believe that if the citizens of this State will make a fair and candid appraisal of the benefit conferred in relation to the cost, their verdict will be that the State's business pays adequate returns to its citizens. While there is doubtless ample opportunity for improvement in operative efficiency, the State's fiscal affairs and business activities are on the whole honestly administered and well managed, and I do not believe there is any easy short cut to the solution of the tax problem through drastic reduction of appropriations or through radical improvements in the methods of disbursing and applying public funds.

On the other hand, the need for caution is indicated in the fact that the post war period has precipitated a great tendency to increase the public debt. We have felt that tendency in this State as it has been felt universally. Three years ago West Virginia was the only State in the whole sisterhood of states that did not have a dollar of state debt. Within that comparatively brief time, we have gone from that extreme position to the other extreme of having an authorized state debt of approximately $65,000,000 which, in proportion to our assessed valuation, is practically as great as the public debt of any other state. Three years ago the legislature faced a judgment of more than $13,000,000 and interest for the payment of the Virginia debt, which has been hovering over us like a dark cloud for decades. It was paid promptly by the issuance of state bonds. At the following election, the voters ratified an amendment to the constitution to authorize the issuance of $50,000,000 for road development and already $15,000,000 of that amount has been sold. This indicates the marked tendency of the times to pile up public debt to meet the demands that arise from the broad expansion of our scope of government activities.

What has been true of the State in this respect has likewise been true in almost the same proportion of every taxing unit within the State and it is difficult to see the end of it. During the past fiscal year clouds of bonds have been issued by county, road and school districts and city. Warnings have been issued against the multiplication of public debt, but the public seems to regard these well-intended reminders of the inevitable end as mere pretenses. Otherwise heed would have been taken and through aroused public opinion remedies would have been applied. With the debt increasing yearly, the veriest tyro in taxation can easily prophesy the ending of such a fatuous system.

If the public has gone "bond issue mad" and if from the influence of a war period there has been created a more or less reckless disregard of the value of money or indifference as to the final day for settlement of public debts now being created, it is unfortunate for our posterity. If any such condition of public sentiment controls at this time the use of public money or the issue of bonds or the pledging of the future credit of the public, then the first remedy to be suggested is that the public mind must get back to a realization of the conditions now existing and must be brought to a full comprehension of the results that will ensue if the people do not at least retrench to the extent of lessening their demands for public activities along lines that approach public luxuries rather than being confined to real public necessities.

No private individual will retrench, impair nor abandon any branch of his business in which he can see future success. On the other hand, every sane business man will, and under present conditions must, reduce the overhead expense of his business to the minimum of such as will leave an efficient machinery for safe development.

The remedy for excessive public burdens lies in adopting the same methods and applying them to public business and public affairs. What a private citizen does to secure safety and success in his business affairs, the public must be educated to do as connected with public business. General progress, both in private enterprise and along the lines of the ideal in public government, to the end that the greatest results will come to each, can only come when industrial efforts can be exerted in a way that will be unimpeded and unhampered by excessive and unnecessary burdens incident to abnormal efforts toward purely advancement. The two should go hand in hand.

PUBLIC UTILITY PROPERTY

A TABLE SHOWING THE ASSESSED VALUES, BY MAGISTERIAL DISTRICTS AND MUNICIPALITIES, OF THE PROPERTY OF RAILROAD, OIL AND GAS PIPE LINE, WATER, LIGHT AND POWER, TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH, EXPRESS, CAR LINE AND TOLL BRIDGE COMPANIES FOR THE YEARS 1920 AND 1921

ASSESSMENTS MADE BY THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS

NOTE—Under the law, in the assessment of public utility property, it is the duty of the Board of Public Works to arrive at and fix the value of the property of each company in each county: the apportionment of the assessed value in each county to the several districts and municipalities being the duty of the county court. While the Board of Public Works, where possible, for the information of the county courts, figured out the portion of the total of the assessed value of the property of each company in each county due each of the several districts and municipalities therein, the actual distribution of the assessed value to the districts and municipalities as shown in the following table was made by the several county courts.

BARBOUR COUNTY

INTRODUCTORY

Bonded indebtedness of the State of West Virginia, its counties, districts, school districts and municipalities as of July 1, 1922.

The detail tables contained in this report show for each bond issue: Amount of the original bond issue; amount outstanding July 1, 1922; rate of interest; purpose for which issued, date interest payable and date bonds mature.

Tables are arranged alphabetically by counties. County tables are followed by a recapitulation of county bond issues, a recapitulation of district bond issues, a recapitulation of school district bond issues, a recapitulation of municipal bond issues and a grand recapitulation by counties, showing all bonds outstanding July 1, 1922, and bonds authorized at time of compiling this report, but unsold July 1, 1922.

July 1, 1922, the State of West Virginia and its several taxing districts had bonds outstanding aggregating $72,610,400.

Additional bonds have been authorized by a vote of the people prior to the time of compiling this report, but were not issued prior to July 1, 1922, aggregating $18,511,000, making a grand total of bonds outstanding and authorized of $91,121,400. This total includes the $15,000,000. State road bonds authorized by the First Session of the 1923 Legislature.

THE BONDS ARE THE DIRECT OBLIGATIONS OF THE FOLLOWING CLASSES OF TAXING DISTRICTS:

	Issued and Outstanding	Authorized but not Issued	Grand Total

SIR:

REPORT DEPARTMENT OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

In presenting the Third Biennial Report of the Department of Weights and Measures of West Virginia, covering the two-year period ending October 31, 1922, I feel that much has been accomplished not only in acquainting the public with the requirements of the law, but saving the purchasing public a large sum of money.

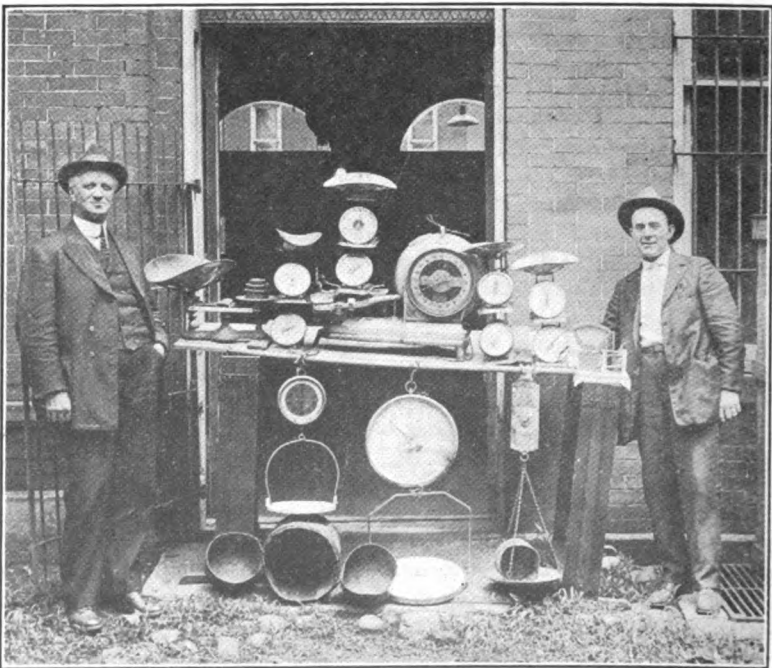

The earliest known historical records reveal the facts that the question of weights and measures has played a most important part in the commercial transactions through all ages. A study of weighing and measuring devices and methods from the time Bible records tell us of the dealings of Abraham with the sons of Heth when he paid them four hundred shekles of silver for a burial place, these being weighed by means of a balance, to the present time, conveys to us the knowledge of how dependent we are upon scales and measures with which nearly every known commodity is reckoned. Each decade sees wonderful changes in the manufacture of scales and measures, and today the devices are marvelous displays of man's ingenuity and skill. Yet with the great inventions we have not reached the period when these instruments of trade have ascended to that perfection in their mechanism that they do not need frequent examination and adjustment.

The duties involved in the work of this department are of tremendous proportions taking into consideration the fact that it is a public servant of a larger percentage of the state's population than any other institution of state government. From the youngster that toddles to the store with a few pennies to purchase sweets to the operators and miners of our great coal fields, this department is the one to whom they must rely for that correct amount which their money should secure and their toil produce. We realize that this is a broad assertion, but statistics will convince that it is an undeniable fact. We feel that the work accomplished by a limited number of inspectors has much to commend itself to right thinking people.

The activities of two state inspectors of weights and measures and a few county and city sealers during the past two years can best be determined by the number of weighing and measuring devices tested and sealed and further by the number condemned. Every device condemned was found to be giving false weight or measure and to estimate the amount any one particular condemned scale defrauded the purchasers would be an unending task. As an instance, however, you will find that a scale giving fifteen ounces to the pound and in the course of a day of trading some one thousand pounds were weighed on the scale it can readily be seen that  $62\frac{1}{2}$  pounds of various commodities were paid for but the family larder is minus the amount. As to money value, suppose the commodities averaged ten cents per pound. It can be readily figured that the merchant has \$6.25 to add to his daily profits from the inaccuracy of his scale. The merchant is just as anxious to give correct weight as the purchaser is to receive it but if there is no one to correct the evil, then the merchant and the public are compelled to carry on their commercial dealings with one "receiving something for nothing."

During the two years covered by this report there has been numerous changes in most of the counties. A sealer will be appointed and about the time he has learned something of the duties his services have been dispensed with and another sealer appointed or else the work is ordered performed by the sheriff. As a result the two state inspectors are frequently called to counties where the county court, under the plea of poverty, is endeavoring to shift the responsibilities on the state department. We have answered every call made upon us and have been able to adjust misunderstandings and settle some difficult problems over weights in some of the coal producing counties which are amply able to appoint a sealer and maintain a county department of weights and measures.

ILLEGAL AND SHORT WEIGHING AND MEASURING DEVICES CONFISCATED IN ONE SMALL TOWN.

It is our contention that it would be far better to direct the activities of inspectors from the state department, feeling that much more could be accomplished if six or eight inspectors were appointed to take the places of county sealers and thus relieve the counties of this responsibility which, however, many have declined to assume. With cities of 15,000 population and more having a sealer and the state department cooperating it is a safe prediction that every weighing and measuring device in use in the state would at least once during each year undergo a test. The plans outlined would mean a saving of large proportions to the taxpayers of the state inasmuch as the counties would be relieved from the paying of salaries and expenses of sealers and the state inspectors would perform the services heretofore required by county sealers.

We feel that this state has a weights and measures law equally as good as any other state in the Union and we can only recommend a few changes and this for broadening the work in order that every county, large and small, may receive the same service.

STANDARD CONTAINER ACT

The enactment of a federal law on standard containers for fruits and vegetables was a forward step toward bringing weights and measures to greater recognition of the government, yet it has not solved the problems on the sale of such commodities. In bringing a dealer's attention to the sale of a basket of fruit or vegetables marked half bushel or peck and upon tests by weight the basket indicates it contains short measure he invariably replies that they were standard containers. Opinions from both the U. S. Bureau of Standards and Attorney General of the State were obtained and the correspondence is here made a part of this report.

"BUREAU OF STANDARDS,
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIRS:

Would you kindly send the State Department of Weights and Measures, Charleston, West Virginia, such pamphlets as you have on the question of standard containers, viz: baskets, barrels, boxes, etc.?

At this time of the year, when fruits and vegetables are on the market, we find that the dealers have these baskets and other containers marked one bushel, or two bushels, as the case might be, yet when it comes to complying with the state law requiring a certain number of pounds to the bushel, these containers fall far short in weight, although the commodity is placed in a standard basket, etc.

No doubt you have had similar inquiries as to the best method of handling such conditions, and we shall appreciate an opinion from you on the subject.

Very truly yours,

G. F. DAUGHERTY,
Commissioner of Weights & Measures.

MR. G. F. DAUGHERTY, Commissioner,
Department of Weights and Measures,
Bureau of Labor,
Charleston, W. Va.

Subject: Packages for fruits and vegetables.

DEAR SIR:

1. Your letter of the 19th instant, in relation to packages for fruits and vegetables, and requesting publications in regard to standard containers, has been received. In accordance with your request, we are forwarding to you herewith publications which will be of interest to you in this connection, namely, the Standard Barrel Law, the Standard Apple Barrel Law, and the Standard Container Act.

2. We note your comment to the effect that baskets and other containers marked one bushel, two bushels, etc., are found upon test to hold less than the weight for the commodity contained therein established by your State Law. If the containers are of the proper size, this condition is the result of the fact that two different units of measures are involved, namely, the heaped bushel and the stricken bushel.

3. The Federal Department of Agriculture approves packages containing 2,150.42 cubic inches per bushel. When used for shipping, these containers are ordinarily filled full to the top, but without a heap, and therefore contain a stricken bushel of the commodity packed therein. Your weights per bushel in common with those of most of the other States contemplate a heaped bushel of some commodities, this resulting in a bushel measure full to the brim and then heaped in the form of a cone as high as may be without special intent or design. Since the volume of this heap is included in the one case and excluded in the other, the weights of the commodities contained in a measure filled in the two manners mentioned will differ very materially. Since there seems to be no doubt under present regulations that the stricken bushel is legal in interstate commerce, the whole matter is at the present time in the very greatest confusion, and discrepancies are very prevalent. When the goods are measured at the time of sale, or when a shipment originates in your State, there seems to be no question but that you can legally insist upon the weights per bushel mentioned in your

State law. When the containers are brought in from outside the State you probably cannot insist upon your local legal weights until after the goods have, in the language of the courts, "been mixed with the general property of the State"; that is, your legal weights can be insisted upon after the first sale of the package within the borders of the State. The difficulty of enforcing the legal weights per bushel in the case of interstate actions, lies in the fact that the original shipper cannot be held to account, but a citizen of your State, who is in no way responsible for the packing of the container, must suffer the legal consequence.

4. The whole question as noted above is one of the greatest difficulty, and no solution entirely equitable and satisfactory to all parties concerned has as yet been arrived at. We regret, therefore that we cannot suggest any definite course of procedure under the circumstances.

Respectfully,

S. W. STRATTON, Director.

HON. E. T. ENGLAND,
Attorney General,
Charleston, W. Va.

DEAR GENERAL:

Section 27 of the Weights and Measures Law of West Virginia sets forth among other things, that apples shall weigh 48 pounds to the bushel, peaches 48 pounds to the bushel, onions 55 pounds to the bushel, and potatoes 60 pounds to the bushel.

The inspectors of weights and measures, on their inspection trips through the wholesale produce establishments of Charleston, have discovered fruits and vegetables in containers, such as hampers and baskets, marked "one bushel," yet the weight of these commodities falls short of that required by our law. The dealers contend that since the government fixes standard baskets, barrels and other containers, and these baskets, etc., comply with the Federal statute, they are justified in selling these fruits and vegetables as they are marked; that is, "one bushel," "two bushels," etc.

Section 23 of the Weights and Measures Law provides that:

"It shall be unlawful to keep for the purpose of sale, offer or expose for sale, or sell any commodity in package form unless the net quantity of the contents be plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package, in terms of weights, measures, or numerical count; provided, however, that reasonable variations or tolerances and also exemptions as to small packages shall be established by rules and regulations made by the Commissioner of Weights and Measures; and, provided, further, that this section shall not be construed to apply to medical articles and to those commodities in packages the manner of sale of which is specifically regulated by the provisions of other sections of this act.

“The word ‘package’ as used in this section shall be construed to include the package, carton, case, basket, can, box, barrel, half-barrel, hamper, keg, drum, jug, jar, crock, bag, pail, wrapper, parcel, package, bottle, phial, or other receptacle put up by the manufacturer; or when put up prior to the order of the commodity, by the vendor; which may be labeled, branded or stenciled, or otherwise marked, or which may be suitable for labeling, branding or stenciling, or marking otherwise, making one complete package of the commodity. The word ‘package’ shall be construed to include both the wholesale and the retail package; provided that a box or carton used for shipping purposes containing a number of similar packages which are individually marked, as hereinbefore provided, will not be required to bear the weight or measure of contents; and provided, further, that all commodities in packages, boxes, cans, bottles or other containers in the hands of merchants, both wholesale and retail, at the time of the passage of this act, shall be and are hereby exempt from the provisions of the same.”

Would you kindly furnish this department with an official opinion as to whether it has authority to direct that the commodities referred to be marked so many pounds, true and actual weight, instead of being marked, one bushel, two bushels, etc., when the actual weight of these commodities does not meet with the requirements of Section 27 of our Weights and Measures Law?

Very truly yours,

G. F. DAUGHERTY,
Commissioner of Weights & Measures.

MR. G. F. DAUGHERTY,
Commissioner of Weights and Measures,
Charleston, W. Va.

DEAR SIR:

I have your letter of the 24th instant, in which you state that the inspectors of weights and measures in their trips through the wholesale establishments of Charleston have discovered fruits and vegetables in containers such as hampers and baskets marked “one bushel,” when the weight of these commodities falls short of that required by our law; that the dealers contend that inasmuch as the Federal Government fixes standard baskets, barrels and other containers, and that the baskets in which such produce are offered for sale comply with the Federal statutes, that they are justified in selling same as they are marked; that is, "one bushel" or such other measurement as the container is supposed to hold.

You desire our opinion as to whether or not your department has the authority to direct that the commodities referred to be marked according to the number of pounds contained in the container, according to the true and actual weight, instead of being marked, "one bushel," "two bushels," or such other measure as they are supposed to contain when the actual weight of these commodities does not meet the requirements of Section 27 of our Weights and Measures Law.

The fact that the commodities mentioned are sold in containers which comply with the Federal statute relative to standard containers, would not, in my judgment, affect the operation of our State law prohibiting a dealer from selling commodities of a less quantity than represented. The selling of commodities in containers complying with the Federal standard, merely protects the dealer from prosecution under the Federal statutes, but in no wise alters his liability under our State law.

Section 23 of our Weights and Measures Law, provides that it shall be unlawful to keep for the purpose of sale, offer or expose for sale, or sell any commodity in package form unless the net quantity of the contents be plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package, in terms of weights, measures, or numerical count; provided, however, that reasonable variations or tolerances and also exemptions as to small packages shall be established by rules and regulations made by the Commissioner of Weights and Measures; this section further provides that the word "package" as used in said section shall be construed to include the package, carton, case, basket, can, box, barrel, half-barrel, hamper, keg, drum, jug, jar, crock, bag, pail, wrapper, parcel, package, bottle, phial or other receptacle put up by the manufacturer; or when put up prior to the order of the commodity, by the vendor; which may be labeled, branded or stenciled or otherwise marked or which may be suitable for labeling, branding or stenciling, or marking otherwise, making one complete package of the commodity. Therefore, it would seem that if apples are sold in a basket, that the contents of such baskets should be marked either by weight, measure or numerical count. If the dealer chooses to mark his container as containing one bushel, he would have the right to do so, but in determining whether or not the container did actually contain a bushel, it would be determined by the net weight of the contents as provided by section 27 of the Weights and Measures Law, wherein it is provided that a bushel, half-bushel, peck, half-peck, quarter-peck, quart and pint of the respective articles mentioned in a table afterwards set forth, shall be the amount of weights, avoirdupois, as shown by such table. This table provides that the weight of a bushel of apples shall be 48 pounds. Therefore, if a basket marked as containing a bushel of apples, should contain less than 48 pounds, the container would be improperly marked, and the person selling such container would be violating our Weights and Measures Law.

While I do not understand that the Weights and Measures Department could compel a dealer to mark the actual weight of the package in which a commodity is sold, yet if he marks it in terms of measure and the weight should fall short of what such measure should contain, he could be prosecuted for selling a commodity in a container represented to hold more than the actual quantity sold.

Very truly yours,

E. T. ENGLAND,
Attorney General,
By CHAS. RITCHIE,
Assistant.

STANDARD LOAVES OF BREAD

Under Section 23 of the Weights and Measures Law, which provides that it shall be unlawful to keep for the purpose of sale, offer or expose for sale, or sell any commodity in package form unless the net quantity of its contents be plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package in terms of weight, measure or numerical count, this department has ruled that wrapped bread is a commodity in package form, and has required the weight to be marked thereon as the section directs. Many bakeries place their bread in show cases and as it is purchased the bread is removed and placed in a sack, therefore, this dealer would not be required to mark his bread while another dealer who delivers bread to customers or merchants is required under the law to mark on the wrapper the weight of each loaf. We have heard complaints and charges of discrimination in these cases and have concluded that the best method to govern such matters would be to urge the enactment of a law on standard weight for bread. The committee appointed at the 1921 conference of weights and measures officials held in the City of Washington reported a model bread law at the last conference in May, 1922, which should become a law of West Virginia. We feel that the baker as well as the consumer will add approval to the enactment of such a measure. The proposed law is as follows:

MODEL BREAD LAW ADOPTED BY THE FOURTEENTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Sec. 1. That the standard loaf of bread shall weigh one pound, avoirdupois weight. All loaves of bread manufactured, procured, or kept for the purpose of sale, offered or exposed for sale, or sold, in the form of loaves, shall be of this standard weight, or of one of the following weights, and no other, namely, one-half of such standard weight, one and one-half times such standard weight, or in multiple of such standard weight. Provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to biscuits, buns, crackers, rolls, or to what is commonly known as "stale bread" and sold as such, provided the seller shall at the time of sale expressly state to the buyer that the bread so sold is "stale" bread. When twin or multiple loaves are baked, the weights specified in this act shall apply to each unit of the twin or multiple loaf.

Sec. 2. That the enforcing officer shall enforce the provisions of this act. Rules and regulations for the enforcement of the provisions of this act now inconsistent therewith, shall be made by the enforcing officer and such rules and regulations shall include reasonable variations and tolerances, in excess and deficiency, which may be allowed.

Sec. 3. That it shall be unlawful for any person to manufacture, procure, or keep for the purpose of sale, offer or expose for sale, or sell, bread in the form of loaves, which is not of one of the weights specified in Sec. 1, within such variations and tolerances as may be fixed by the enforcing officer. Any person who, by himself or by his servant, or agent or as the servant or agent of another, shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25.00 nor more than $200.00, upon a first conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction; and upon a second or subsequent conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction, he shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50.00 nor more than $500.00 or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 4. The word "person" as used in this act shall be construed to import both the plural and the singular, as the case demands, and shall include corporations, companies, societies, and associations.

COAL SCALES

The number of what we term "coal scales" is continually increasing in the state and as these scales are used exclusively for the weighing of coal and the weights determine wages, both operator and miner are desirous of having them accurate. The work entailed in testing these scales requires much time and attention. During a period of business depression few mines were in operation and the scales became idle as well as the mine. The requests for inspectors to test scales acts as sort of a barometer with this department as to the condition of the coal business, and recent demands made upon the office indicates a business revival at the mines. When the department is advised that there is a suspicion as to the inaccuracy of scales we use our every effort to give them prompt attention and find that few complaints have been unfounded.

Mine scales are put to such violent use that they soon become incorrect and frequent tests must be given to insure just weights and more especially contentment among the toilers.

An item of expense in connection with the testing of coal scales is the transportation of weights. To express five or ten 50-pound weights to a mine and from the mine back to the office amounts to quite a large sum in a year. This expense we are endeavoring to eliminate by urging the operators to secure these weights and keep them in such condition that they may be used by the inspector in his tests. It would mean a very small cost to the mine owner and a great saving to the state. This department has a balance for the testing of heavy weights and once each year an inspector could visit the mines for the purpose of calibrating the test weights. An amendment to our law requiring the mines using scales to secure ten 50-pound weights for use by inspector should be enacted. Other owners of large capacity scales should also be required to secure these weights.

While there are some coal operations that do not have scales, a method has been devised for roughly checking the amount of coal in a car or bin. This method is as follows: To find the number of tons of coal in a bin find the number of cubic feet it contains and multiply by the weight of a cubic foot of coal and divide by 2,000. As bituminous coal is mined in West Virginia it varies more than anthracite. The weight per cubic foot ranges from 47 to 55 pounds—an average of 51 pounds.

Our state inspectors have complied with requests from eighty-eight mines, these requests coming either from operator or miner. Special attention has been given to these complaints and they are here recorded by counties. In addition 17 heavy capacity cattle and wagon scales were tested upon request, making a total of 105 heavy capacity scales.

GASOLINE MEASURING DEVICES

During the year 1922 the department directed its attention to the inspection of gasoline measuring devices. Our two state inspectors, together with the county and city sealers, have devoted much time to this work and their reports reveal some startling discrepancies. The true conditions found can best be brought to the attention of the automobile owners by presenting to them the facts as to their losses in money value. We are seeking the cooperation of both automobilist and gasoline owner and have been able to adjust many serious defects in the sale of gasoline and oil.

In the City of Charleston where the crusade was started 41 pumps out of 59 tested, or 70%, were found to be giving short measure. An estimate made of the amount of gasoline sold in Charleston per day was fixed at 10,000 gallons. The total shortage per day was found to be 110.8 gallons. Selling at 25c per gallon, the daily loss amounted to $27.70 or $10,110.50 for a year of 365 days.

In Huntington 71 pumps were tested and 64 were found giving short measure. The shortage amounted to 3.1 cubic inches per gallon on an average and out of an estimated sale of 12,000 gallons daily with the prevailing price at the time of test being 27c per gallon, the daily loss amounted to $43.47, or a total of $15,866.55 each year.

In Parkersburg 40 pumps were tested and found incorrect showed an average of 3.7 cubic inches per gallon, and estimating the daily sale at 5,000 gallons, the shortage would run 80 gallons per day which would be equal to a daily loss of $20.00 and at the then prevailing price of gasoline $7,000.00 per year.

In the City of Wheeling 27 pumps out of 81 tested were found to be giving short measure, the shortage ranging from 1.8 cubic inches to twelve cubic inches per gallon. The total shortage for a year would have amounted to 15,735 gallons, at 29c per gallon, the price at time of test, would amount to $4,563.15, for the year. One pump, however, was found to be delivering 11 cubic inches per gallon in excess. At this same excess prevailing throughout the year the loss would amount to 4,605 gallons or $1,335.45.

The same conditions prevailed in every section of the state as found in the four cities of which figures are given. It would be a difficult task to estimate the shortage found in the entire state. The four cities showed a shortage in money value of approximately $37,500.00 per year. With these shortages being corrected and the consumer receiving correct amounts we feel that the department is performing a service that is sure to command the cooperation of the public if an economical attitude is to prevail among the gasoline users.

Figures were compiled from tests made in 35 of the 55 counties that were visited by our state inspectors and it was found that the enormous sum of $80,690.81 would have been the loss to consumer had not corrections been made in the gasoline measuring devices as well as the methods of sale. The tables following will give you an idea of the work of this department in the testing of pumps.

DR. C. W. WAGGONER

The death of Dr. C. W. Waggoner, Department of Physics, West Virginia University, and by virtue of that position was Assistant Commissioner of Weights and Measures, is most deeply felt by this department as well as by faculty and students of the University. Dr. Waggoner was on leave of absence at the time of his death. He was accidentally killed by being thrown from a horse at Shreveport, La., in October 1922.

He became identified with the Department of Weights and Measures on May 1, 1915, following the enactment of the law creating the department. His work, throughout the seven years in the technical requirements of the department were of such a nature that they will live in the acts of inspectors and sealers for many years. He loved his work and was never better contented than when he could delve into the intricate mechanism of a weighing or measuring device.

Many interesting papers on subjects connected with his work have found an important place in the libraries of the country.

AN ILLEGAL SHORT MEASURE GASOLINE DISPENSING DEVICE CONFISCATED BY THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

CONCLUSION.

The duties of an inspector and sealer are varied and much of their time is devoted to correcting practices in trade that are unlawful under the weights and measures law. The testing of weighing and measuring devices is only a part of the duties of an official, yet the only one of which a record is kept. Our state inspectors are required to instruct newly appointed sealers which requires much of their time. There is a great work yet untouched in this state and after every weighing and measuring device has received a thorough testing, a constant watchfulness to keep them correct is required. In the course of trade new merchants, new purchasers, and new devices daily become a problem to connect with weights and measures. There is no denying the fact that this is an all-important question and the work in West Virginia is yet in its infancy.

Report of the
West Virginia
State Child Welfare Commission

Recommendations to be Submitted to the 1923 Session of the Legislature to Promote the Welfare of the Children of West Virginia

1 9 2 2

Prepared by the West Virginia State Child Welfare Commission, which was Authorized by the Legislature and Appointed by Governor Ephraim F. Morgan, July, 1922.

Office: Capitol Bldg.

Charleston, W. Va.

TRIBUNE PRINTING CO., CHARLESTON, W. VA.

To His Excellency, the Honorable EPHRAIM F. MORGAN, Governor, and to the Legislature of West Virginia.

DEAR SIRs:

The West Virginia State Child Welfare Commission authorized by the 1921 session of the legislature and appointed by you in July, 1921, has the honor to submit to you its final report. The Commission was appointed to "study and investigate the laws and conditions existing relating to dependent, neglected, defective and delinquent children; to report the results of its investigation with its recommendations to the 1923 legislature; and to submit such bills as may be necessary in the carrying out of its recommendations."

For over a year we have been making an intensive study of the conditions which surround the child life of the state. Based on the study, we have drawn up certain legislation which we feel to be fundamental and constructive. We earnestly believe that the program of the Commission, if adopted, as a whole, will not only bring about conditions to promote the welfare of the children but also materially lighten the financial burden which has been carried by the individual counties.

The following recommendations are presented for your careful consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

L. J. FORMAN,
Chairman.

PART I.

Periodically during the last decade laws have been passed to meet issues which interfered with the normal development of the child. The laws governing child labor, creating juvenile courts, enforcing compulsory school attendance and other pieces of legislation bear witness to the success of past attempts to correct specific instances of child abuse or neglect.

Yet in this same period, little or no attempt has been made to coordinate such efforts or to consider how new provisions would fit into laws already on the statute books.

In 1911 Ohio was the first state to start a systematic study of the law relating to children. As a result the Children's Code or Child Welfare Commission was created to displace previous spasmodic efforts.

Since then over half the states have followed Ohio's example. In 1921 the West Virginia Legislature created such a commission. Their function was "to study and to investigate the laws and conditions existing relating to dependent, neglected, defective and delinquent children and to report the result of its investigation together with its recommendations to the 1923 session of the Legislature."

The commission consists of nine members serving without pay, whose term matures with the 1923 session of the Legislature. Governor Morgan took great care to see that the appointments of this commission were non-political, non-sectional and non-sectarian.

The first piece of work undertaken was an informal digest of all the laws in the state governing minors.

This digest has been printed to give the citizens of the state a definite knowledge of the present provisions affecting children. The children's law in West Virginia is in the main much the same as that of other progressive states. However there are certain glaring deficiencies in the law and it is to the consideration of the most fundamental of these that the Commission has confined itself. Its study was carried on through personal investigation of actual conditions; through correspondence; and conferences with the officials or citizens who have a practical knowledge of the particular fields under consideration.

The Commission was fortunate in securing the heads of the state departments dealing with children to serve as an advisory council, namely, Department of Health, Department of Schools, Department of Labor, Board of Children's Guardians and Board of Control. The work has been carried on with the co-operation of the above officials. The Commission has also had the advice of people who have devoted their lives to the study of standards in protective legislation for children.

The Commission has sought to secure greater benefits to the child without placing any further load on the already overburdened tax payer. The program of the Commission if adopted as a whole, instead of further increasing the taxes will materially lighten them, at the same time it will insure to the children of the state greater opportunity to become useful citizens.

In the following pages will be found the specific recommendations which the Commission offers for consideration.

PART II.

NEW LEGISLATION.

THE CREATION OF HOMES IN EACH OF THE CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS OF THE STATE FOR THE CARE AND SUPPORT OF THE POOR.

That there be created in each of the Congressional Districts of the state district homes for the shelter, care, maintenance and protection of the poor in each district. The Presidents of the county courts of the counties in the congressional districts and the State Board of Control shall constitute a Board of Managers for the Control and management of the home. The Board of Managers shall visit all the poor farms within each district and select if possible one of the present farms for the district home. If any of the present farms are not suitable for such a home the Board shall select a new site. Only one home shall be located in the district unless in the judgment of the Board more than one shall be necessary. The remaining farms may be sold and the funds paid into the treasuries of the respective counties.

The Managers shall make such alterations and provide such equipment and employ such employees as may be necessary to carry out the purpose of this act.

The farm selected shall be valued and paid for pro rata by the counties which make up the district in proportion to the assessed valuation of the property in the county. The current expenses shall be paid by the counties participating in the use of the home on a per capita basis. The Board of Managers shall select a president, a secretary and a treasurer from their own body.

Forty-five counties of the state have county almshouses. The remaining ten counties care for their poor by the contract system. That is, contracting the care of so many persons per year to the lowest bidder. Each of the forty-five poor farms are valued any where from $5,000.00 to $200,000.00. This includes the value of the land, the buildings and the household equipment. In the majority of cases the homes are being maintained for a suprisingly small number of inmates at a per capita cost which runs as high as $600.00 per year. A $41,000.00 farm which is being maintained for six inmates is supporting ten additional people who work on the farm. Another $18,000.00 farm has nine inmates and eleven able bodied visitors. Another $18,000.00 farm has four inmates and six persons who are not considered as inmates. Still another $18,000.00 farm has sixty inmates and ten people who are working on or "visiting" the farm. Over one-half of the farms are being maintained for fewer than ten inmates. In one county there is a fifty acre farm, a building of eighteen rooms and two inmates, both infirm. And still another county, a $10,000.00 farm of eighty-five acres, three inmates; eighty, eighty-two and eighty-three years respectively who cost the county $365.00 per capita annually.

The county almshouses in a great many instances have become rubbish heaps into which are swept these unfortunates whether they be men, women or children who have been thrown upon the county for aid. They are herded together in spite of disease and regardless of the fundamental principals of sanitation. One-third of the homes have not sufficient water supply to furnish adequate amount of water. Half of them have no bath tubs and one county suggested that such a provision was not necessary as they used the wash tubs in the winter and the river in the summer.

Living among these conditions are one hundred and seventy-five of our children. Some defectives, even some delinquent, others merely unfortunate for whom no one has seemed to make themselves responsible, and who serve in certain cases as "numbers" to swell the attendance at the neighboring district school in order that the school may be kept open for the few normal children of the district.

Under such a consolidation instead of approximately a million dollar investment of land being utilized for eight hundred inmates there would be six homes where the helpless, aged and indigent would be adequately cared for in an efficient and economical manner under sanitary and healthful conditions, still under the direct control of the individual counties through the president of the respective county courts who constitute the Board of Managers. By this consolidation the first district will save $175,000.00 on their investment. The second district, $250,000.00 and the remaining four districts will each save $25,000.00. This saving would be in addition to decreasing the actual per capita cost by the joint sharing of the home.

THE CREATION OF COUNTY WELFARE BOARDS.

There is hereby authorized in each of the counties of the state at the option of the counties the creation of a county welfare board. The Board to consist of three members, two residents of the county appointed by the court having juvenile jurisdiction and the president of the county court a member ex officio. The members first appointed to hold office one and two years, the subsequent appointments to be for a term of two years.

The duties of the Board will be to advise with and assist the State Board of Children's Guardians in the performance of its duties in the county and make such visitations and reports as the State Board may request; to act in a general advisory capacity to the county and municipal authorities in dealing with questions of dependency, delinquency and distribution of poor funds.

The County Board shall appoint a County Welfare Agent with the approval of the State Board of Children's Guardians whose duties shall be to make investigation and reports to the State Board of Children's Guardians; to investigate all applications for poor relief and report thereon to the county court which shall grant such relief as will be reasonably necessary; to investigate all applications for mothers' pensions: when requested by the County Board to perform the duties of the probation officer in counties where there is no probation officer and to co-operate with the Child Labor Inspectors, Health and Truancy Officers.

This Board shall not be appointed in any county unless the county court shall direct the same. The county court shall be required to direct the creation of such a Board whenever a petition signed by the voters of the county equal to 5% of the votes cast at the next preceding general election shall request the same.

In counties where no Board is appointed the county court with the approval of the State Board of Children's Guardians may appoint a county welfare agent to co-operate with the county court and the Board of Children's Guardians. The salary of such agent shall be fixed by the county court and the State Board of Children's Guardians and shared jointly by the state and the county.

It will be the duty of the county agent to assist the county health coming within the purview of this act that shall come to their report to the county welfare Board of their respective counties cases coming within the purview of this act that shall come to their attention while acting in the discharge of their duties.

The necessary expenses of the Board and of the agent incurred while acting in the discharge of their official duties to be paid by the county.

In order to develop the local resources of the counties in administration of laws which affect very vitally the children and development of the child life, the individual citizens must become awakened to the necessity of the responsibility of the county to the child. At the present time the provisions protecting the dependent child are inadequate in that they leave the physically and mentally defective and the temporarily dependent child unprovided for. At the present time the protection of the child is divided among a group of part time officials who, unfortunately, have not sufficient duties assigned to them to justify the engaging of all their time in their work. The compensation allotted for such divided services does not provide a reasonable living. They are thus compelled to spend the greater part of their time at some more remunerative occupation thus relegating their public duties to a secondary place. It would be far more to the interests of citizens and the tax payer, to unite these closely related tasks which have in common the welfare of the child into such a county welfare board. Thus fixing the responsibility for an efficient, economical enforcement of the law. On the Board is represented the point of view of both official and citizen. The purpose is to co-ordinate and develop not only county functions but to localize the state functions which come into the province of the counties.

AMENDMENTS.

STATE BOARD OF CHILDREN'S GUARDIANS.

1. To amend acts of 1921. Chapter 134, Section 4. To insert a new paragraph to the effect that all children who become wards of the State Board of Children's Guardians who afterwards become delinquent or are found to be mentally defective that they shall be returned to the committing officer of the county from which the child was received.

2. Section 4D. That any cost or expenses necessary in connection with the family case work investigation, hearing or commitment shall be a proper charge against the county in which the hearing is held and shall be paid by the county court upon such submission to it of an itemized statement verified by affidavit made by the agent of the Board.

3. Section 9. That when necessary the State Board of Children's Guardians may place children that need special care or supervision in private boarding homes temporarily.

4. Section 10. That the powers of the Board be enlarged to make family case work investigation of youths who are mentally defective.

5. Section 24. That no dependent, neglected or abandoned child shall be placed in a county or district poor farm in the state for other than temporary care and then only when a written notification is made to the State Board of said placement. Such notification must be made not later than three days after the child enters the home. In the same manner the Board of Children's Guardians must be notified of the placement of any mental defective in a county or district poor farm. If the superintendent of the county or district home fails to make such a notification he or she shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty-five for each offense.

6. Section 3. To eliminate the clause which limits the number of agents of the Board and provide that one-half of these agents be women.

The first, second, third and sixth amendments are changes which will facilitate the work of the Board and will eliminate certain inadequacies in the powers which the Board already holds.

The fourth amendment is in order to provide some investigation in the case of the mental defective child in order that some adjustment may be made which will protect the child from exploitation and will lighten the burden of the state as far as possible.

The fifth amendment is to provide specific supervision for the children who may be placed in our poor farms for temporary care and to make a repetition of the present condition of our children in the poor farms impossible.

MOTHER'S PENSIONS.

To amend Chapter 46, Section 2. To make it possible for a mother of one or more children under the age of fourteen years or under the age of sixteen years who are not eligible for a working permit to file an application for relief; that she must be a resident in the state for a period of two years and in the county in which the application is made for at least one year previous to the filing of the application.

Section 10. That the maximum amount which a mother may receive is 45.00 per month and that she shall not receive such aid if she is receiving from the Workmen's Compensation Fund, from property, relatives or any other source an amount equal to the maximum amount allowed.

Section 11. To eliminate the clause which prohibits a woman from receiving aid if she owns any property except her household goods.

Section 9. That the court upon hearing an application and finding the alleged facts in the application to be true shall make an order to give aid to the mother of the children in whose benefit the application is filed. During the month preceding the end of each fiscal year the county court shall reconsider all cases that are then receiving mothers' pensions and shall enter orders fixing the compensation to be paid during the successive fiscal year.

There are twenty-two counties in the state that are giving any aid under the mothers' pension act and fourteen of these counties are giving aid to fewer than five families. The law as it stands on our statute books has been absurdly inadequate in its provisions and the relief which might well result from an effective administration of a mother's pension has been hampered by the requirements of the law. The first amendment is to bring the provision into unity with the child labor and educational laws already on our statute books. In regard to the period of settlement the changes made correspond with the requirements of the bordering states.

The second amendment increases the allowance of the mothers' pension from the maximum which is $25.00 for a mother with four or more children to an amount which is more in keeping with a standard of living which West Virginia as a state can sanction. Under the provision as it stands we have done all we can to pauperize women by cutting off their sources of revenue and then have expressed our willingness to aid them to the extent of $25.00 per month!

The third. Under the present provision a woman may not own any property except her household goods in order to apply for relief which means that a woman owning her own home but whose source of income is cut off and who has children to educate must give up her home before she may receive aid which will enable her to hold her family together and educate her children. The mother would make a far better citizen if allowed some assistance which would enable her to keep her home. Thus in the above amendment ownership and thrift is encouraged.

In regard to the last amendment. At the present time when a family has "gotten on the county books," it is often difficult to withdraw the aid after the period of need is over. Thus it would be a decided saving in the county to make it a definite policy to reconsider all cases receiving mothers pensions at the end of each fiscal year.

POOR RELIEF.

During the month preceding the end of each fiscal year the county court shall reconsider all cases that have been receiving county aid.

At the present time the counties are spending lump sums of twenty, thirteen, fifteen, seven, twelve thousand and forty-five hundred dollars in aid to the poor through their overseers of the poor. Once a family is listed for aid from the county it is most difficult to close their account. For instance, one of our overseers relates of following up a family who had been on the county books for twelve years. As he approached the house he heard a player piano being played. As he went in at the door the mother of the family was finishing a conversation over the telephone. The overseer asked her if she was not in the habit of receiving orders for groceries from the county, to which she answered in the affirmative, saying that she could not get along without them. Whereupon the overseer made some observations about the piano, the telephone and the apparent comfort of the home to which she answered, "H—, you can't expect me to eat the piano."

MARRIAGE.

To amend the provisions for marriage so that every application for marriage to the county clerk must be accompanied by a medical certificate to be obtained within fifteen days prior to the application and signed by a reputable physician, stating whether or not the parties, after a thorough examination, are believed to be free from venereal disease. The physician shall not charge more than $2.00 for the examination. False statements by applicants or examining physician shall be punishable by a fine of from $50.00 to $100.00 and be imprisoned for not more than thirty days or both.

That no minister or other person celebrating a marriage shall perform the ceremony until ten days have elapsed after the issuance of the marriage license by the county clerk. Any person violating this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding 100 dollars.

At the present time seventeen states make venereal disease a bar to marriage. Ten of the states require a certificate from both men and women. The regulation of conditions under which marriage can take place is a fundamental protection of the child. The child has the right to be born sound in body. It is the duty of the state to safeguard this right in so far as possible.

The past few years has shown us that a large percent of the hasty marriages and elopements end in our courts on pleas of desertion or non-support and that such marriages are a considerable factor in swelling the number of divorces. A short period of time between the issuance of the marriage license and the performance of the ceremony would encourage a thoughtful entering into the marriage contract and would form a very vital protection to the inalienable rights of the child to a normal family life.

ENDORSEMENTS.

MENTAL DEFECTIVES.

The mental defective in West Virginia is a problem in the development and progress of the social and economical life of both state and county. In a detailed survey which was made by the National Committee for mental hygiene in co-operation with West Virginia mental hygiene the following facts were brought forth.

That 51% of the inmates studied at the State Penitentiary were repeaters. Seventy per cent either had no schooling whatever or never got beyond the 5th grade of public schools. Forty-four and nine-tenths per cent of these individuals have the mental level of the average American child of 12 years or under.

Twenty per cent were feeble minded.

Forty-eight per cent of the inmates at the West Virginia Industrial Home for Girls had the mental level of 12 years or under while only one girl was chronologically 12 years or under.

Thirty-one per cent of the girls of this institution were feeble minded.

Sixty-two per cent of the boys of the West Virginia Industrial School for Boys have the mental age of children of 12 years or under while only 5% were chronologically 12 years or under.

Thirty per cent of the inmates of this institution were feeble minded.

Forty per cent of the inmates of the county jails of the state had records of previous offenses.

Twenty-eight per cent of these individuals were feeble minded persons.

Mental defectiveness is an important factor in the spread of venereal disease.

Thirty per cent of the immoral women studied were feeble minded.

The inmates of 16 county infirmaries have been studied. Fifty-one per cent of these individuals were in such poor or bad physical condition as to be in urgent need of medical care and treatment. Twenty-two per cent were suffering from mental diseases.

Forty-one per cent of the inmates were feeble minded.

Twelve of the 28 children at the West Virginia Children's Home were feeble minded. Five per cent of the children at the West Virginia Odd Fellows Home were feeble minded.

Finally between 2-3% of the public school children studied were feeble minded.

Throughout the state are to be found mental defective children who are not receiving that protection and preparation for life which might prevent them from becoming the future criminals, vagrants, dependents, paupers or from becoming the mothers of illegitimate children and from propagating more of their own kind faster than we can train or control them.

Inasmuch as the 1921 session of the legislature authorized the creation of the training school for mental defectives the commission heartily endorses the request of the Board of Control that the 1923 session of the legislature shall incorporate in the appropriation of the Board of Control $125,000.00 for the year 1923 and the year 1924 for the building, development and maintenance of the above institution.

RECOMMENDATION CONCERNING THE MENTAL DEFECTIVES

Inasmuch as it is deemed necessary to the development of the child life of the state that some immediate provision be made for the segregation and care of a larger group of mental defectives;

And in view of the fact that there are adequate facilities for the care of a larger number of insane at the Weston State Hospital and the Spencer State Hospital than are now being cared for in either of these respective institutions;

That one-half of the population of the Huntington State Hospital at the present time, consists of feeble minded;

And inasmuch as the State Board of Control has the legal authority to transfer from one State Institution to another;

The State Child Welfare Commission heartily recommends to the State Board of Control that they authorize the transfer of insane and epileptics to the Weston State Hospital and the Spencer State Hospital, in order to provide adequate facilities for the care and segregation of the feeble minded thus mitigating a very vital need in the State, pending the building and development of the West Virginia Training School for mental defectives which was created by the 1921 session of the legislature but for which no appropriation was made.

MIDWIFERY.

Every year in the most useful and essential period of their lives three hundred mothers of West Virginia die in child birth or of the results of child birth. In the same period four thousand babies die under one year of age and of that four thousand, two thousand die before they have reached the age of one month. That Midwifery is practiced, we know and due to the lack of accurate information of the exact number of midwives in West Virginia and of the conditions under which they practice and due to the fact that it has been impossible for the commission to devote sufficient time to this specific study to justify the setting of arbitrary standards upon which to base the practice of midwifery, it is recommended that the Board of Health be authorized to make a careful survey of the conditions covering the practice of midwifery in the state and to report at the 1925 session of the legislature its findings with its recommendations for bringing the above practice up to such standards as will safeguard the life of both mother and child.

FULL TIME HEALTH UNITS.

The health of the community is the best foundation for progress and happiness. With a view of bringing about such conditions the plans of the state department of health in an attempt to develop in connection with the county court of the respective counties a full time health unit, are heartily endorsed and it is urged that the county authorities join with the state Board of Health in making the creation of such an organization possible.

A full time health unit is understood to mean one or more full time health officers; one or more full time nurses; and office and clerical assistance and where possible, sanitary inspector and one bacteriologist.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION.

The Commission urges the State Department of Health to require and make a full examination of the children entering all state child caring institutions except hospitals not only to serve as a protection against the spread of disease among the inmates of the institution itself but also for furnishing data for intensive study into the primary causes of general disability and disease.

THE APPROVAL OF THE SHEPPARD-TOWNER ACT FOR THE PROMOTION OF MATERNAL AND CHILD HYGIENE WORK.

The lives and health of the mothers and babies of our state are dependent largely upon medical care and attention. In over one-half of the counties of our state there is little provision of any sort for the instruction or supervision of expectant mothers and babies. Even West Virginia's recent and slowly developing system of registration of births and deaths brings out a terrific wastage of our mothers and babies. Every month in our state twenty-five mothers die in child birth or as an immediate result of child birth and over three hundred babies die in West Virginia under one year of age.

The approval of the legislature of the Sheppard-Towner act for the promotion of the maternal and child hygiene work under the State Board of Health will serve to protect the lives of our mothers and our future citizens.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

The State Department of Labor makes the following recommendations which they believe will serve as a protection to the children who are engaged in industry.

That a street trades law be enacted which will protect the health of minors;

That the school attendance will be maintained so that it will be possible to enforce the law efficiently in rural communities;

That children shall not be allowed to run elevators either passenger or freight;

That children in part time schools be taught the dangers in modern industry and be cautioned in avoiding them.

The above provisions would aid in insuring to the child who is working the freedom from the exploitation and the protection of his health and physical fitness.

GENERAL ENDORSEMENTS.

SCHOOLS.

In order that a uniform opportunity of obtaining a common school education may be made available to every child in the county and that no child shall be deprived of equal advantages with any other child in the standard of teachers employed and of equipment provided for the district schools, it is hoped that ultimately the county will be made the unit for school taxation in place of the smaller unit of the district.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

There is a crying need in the state for the shelter of the class of delinquent children who are over the age for admittance to our two industrial schools and are still below the age of an adult. This group is still classed under our law as children and are wandering our streets committing crimes and getting into our courts.

In view of the fact that the West Virginia Industrial School for Girls does not accept inmates over the age of eighteen and that there is no present provision in the state for the protection or shelter of this group of unfortunate delinquent girls excepting the county jails, it is recommended that the State Board of Control make a careful study of the Girls Industrial School with a view of making this institution adequate to deal with this group who form a very vital social problem. This problem is also brought to the further attention of the counties and it is urged that some immediate provision be made where the local need appears.

PART III.

The Commission is aware that the above specific recommendations are only a few fundamental principles which must be woven into the fabric of our state to meet the present exigencies and to form a foundation to alleviate future needs.

Therefore the Commission submits in addition to the recommendations necessitating immediate action, the following:

"RIGHTS OF CHILDHOOD."

with the standards of maintaining them, to be studied thoughtfully by the citizens of the state, that there may be a criterion by which future conditions determining the well-being of our children can be determined.

(The printing in italics shows where West Virginia has come up to the standards specified.)

FIRST RIGHT:

The Right to be Born in Honor, Sound in Body and Mind; The Right to Protection from Disease and to the Promotion of Health.

No marriage should be performed without a license having been issued therefor. In order to qualify for a license the male should be at least eighteen and the female at least sixteen years of age; and both should show that they are sound in mind and free from venereal disease.

Complete and reliable records of births and deaths should be made and preserved.

All midwives required by law to show adequate training and to be licensed and supervised. (*)

Medical advice and nursing service should be made accessible to all mothers during pregnancy and at confinement. (**)

Maternity hospitals or maternity wards in general hospitals for all women wishing hospital care.

Prevention of infantile blindness by adequate treatment of eyes of every infant at birth.

Every child under eighteen years of age, whether at home, at school or at work undergo at least annually a health examination. (†) Public health nurses to make home visits to all infants and children of pre-school age needing care. Independent school districts shall and other districts may have nurses to examine children.

---

(*) To be considered by the 1923 session of the legislature.

(**) The Sheppard-Towner act for promotion for maternal and child hygiene under the Board of Health.

(†) Independent school district shall and other districts may have nurses to examine children.

(1) Under present development by the Board of Health.

Full time health units under the supervision of the State Health Department, (1) equipped to give health instructions to and exercise supervision over all children not under care of private physician; and also instruct mothers in the care and feeding of children.

Training for physical development, the cultivation of health habits, and instruction in hygiene features of all school work.

State licensing and supervision of all child-caring institutions or homes in which infants or young children are cared for. General educational work in prevention of communicable diseases.

SECOND RIGHT:

The Right to Education and Training Sufficient to Develop His Capacity for Knowledge and Achievement.

Adequate school facilities should be made available to every child irrespective of race or color.

*Every child between the ages of 7 and 16 years should be required to attend the public school (*) where he resides for the entire time such school is in session; provided, however that this does not apply to:*

Any child attending private or parochial school or other public school approved by the state educational authorities:

Any child if he has completed the courses of study offered by the public school where he resides or to any child between the ages of 14 and 16 who has completed the eighth grade and is lawfully at work.

Full time attendance officers (**) adequately proportioned to the school population should be provided in cities, and counties to enforce the school attendance law.

Children between the ages of 14 and 18 years who have not completed high school and are lawfully at work be required to attend continuation schools for at least eight hours a week, (†) such schools established in every community where 15 or more such children are at work. This requirement does not apply to any children engaged in club or project work carried on jointly by the state and federal governments or when in attendance upon instruction on the co-operative plan approved by the state educational authorities.

Special instructions be provided for those mentally or physically handicapped; (‡) and special opportunities for advancement be afforded every child in accordance with his ability.

A yearly census should be taken and a complete and accurate list of all children of school age should be kept.

The minimum term of every school, whether urban or rural, should be nine months. (§)

(*) The school year increases on a scale of ten days a year. In 1924 an eight month standard will be realized for all the schools.

(**) Part time.

(†) Working children between fourteen and sixteen are required to attend 144 hours a year.

(‡) School for deaf and blind.

The unit for school administration should be the county. All independent district to be abolished. The progressive plans for the development of the schools, such as consolidation, (1) etc., should be encouraged. Adequately high standards of teachers should be maintained.

THIRD RIGHT:

The right to be Safeguarded from Neglect, Abuse, Exploitation, and other Injustice.

Juvenile Courts should be created for the protection of neglected, abused and delinquent children and every such child under 18 years of age should be under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court unless the judge should transfer his case to some other court for hearing.

The probation system (*) is essential and upon the character of its service the effectiveness of the juvenile court depends. Throughout childhood attention should be given to the mental hygiene of the child—the care of the instincts, emotions and general personality. Apprenticeship and binding out should be safeguarded so that the welfare of the child be insured.

*No child under 16 years of age should be employed at gainful occupations, except as noted below. No child between 16 and 18 (**) years of age should be employed unless a regular work permit has been issued to his employer by public school authorities upon proof that:*

1. He is 14 years of age or over:
2. He has satisfactorily completed the sixth grade of the public schools or its equivalent:
3. He is physically fit for the work contemplated, as certified to by a public health or school physician:
4. And that he has the assurance of lawful work, as certified to by his prospective employer:

The employment of children between 14 and 18 years of age may be permitted during the vacation period (†) of the public schools upon the issuance of vacation permits, no educational qualifications being required; and also on Saturdays and for not more than three hours daily after school hours during the school term upon the issuance of special permits, provided the child's standing in school be satisfactory and the work suitable.

Dangerous occupations should be forbidden to all children under 18 years of age. (‡) Mines and quarries are specified as being in the above class.

Employment in messenger service should be forbidden to girls under 21 years of age at any time.

(1) Is being developed in over 200 communities.

(*) Juvenile courts may appoint probation officers based on population of county.

(**) Between fourteen and sixteen.

(†) Boys of 12.

*Children between 14 and 18 (1) years of age should not be employed at gainful occupations more than eight hours a day or forty-four hours a week or before seven A. M. or after six P. M. (*) of any day.*

State child labor laws should be enforced both by state officers and by local officers under the supervision of state labor authorities.

FOURTH RIGHT:

The Right to Play, Recreation and to Companionship.

Wholesome play and recreation should be fostered by the homes, the school, the church and the community. Local initiative, talent and leadership should be everywhere encouraged and utilized.

Public provisions should be made for suitable recreational means, such as parks, playgrounds, social centers, concerts, swimming pools, etc., including the recreational features of libraries, farm club work, athletics, exhibitions and lectures.

Commercial amusements and public gatherings for recreational purposes should be subject to regulation and supervision by public authorities.

FIFTH RIGHT:

The Right to Care, Food, Shelter and Clothing.

It is the duty of every home to supply these necessities and it is the province of the state to see that this duty is performed. Social effort should be directed toward enabling every home to meet this requirement; in so far as any home is unable to do so but is otherwise suitable for the child, it should receive from private or public sources sufficient aid to make possible the fulfilment of these obligations. (**) A home life as nearly normal as possible should be secured to every child, however, unfortunately circumstanced; but if the best interests of such child or any society should necessitate, institutional care and training adapted to his needs should be provided in such institutions. (†)

(1) 16 years of age.

(*) Before six in the morning or after seven at night.

(**) Mothers' pensions, county aid, State Board of Children's Guardians.

(†) State Children's Home, State Industrial School for Boys, Industrial School for Girls, Industrial School for Deaf and Blind, Insane Hospitals, State Tuberculosis Hospitals.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

CHARLESTON, W. VA., De c. 1, 1921

To His Excellency,
Honorable E. F. Morgan,
Governor of West Virginia.

SIR:

In compliance with the law we have the honor to transmit herewith the first annual report of the Game and Fish Commission of West Virginia.

Owing to the lateness of the date on which the Commission assumed its duties, this report embraces its activities only through a portion of one open hunting season. The brevity of the report, therefore, is due in part to the short period covered, in part to the withholding of recommendations for the next annual report issued before the convening of the Legislature, and to the lack of complete data on the results of many new lines of protective work begun under authority of the present Forest, Game and Fish laws.

Respectfully submitted,
GAME AND FISH COMMISSION OF W. VA.

GAME AND FISH

West Virginia embraces a region of unquestioned adaptability for a majority of species of the most desirable game animals and birds native to the eastern states. It has a range of altitude from about 250 feet in the south-western and the eastern parts of the State, up to 4,860 feet in the highest part of the Alleghany Mountains; it has great diversity of climate, land surface, exposure, soil, and ground cover; and it has a natural food supply adequate for the needs of native game of all kinds. Fortunately, there are but few barren spots within the State, the only exceptions being badly burned areas where coniferous forests once stood. Territory from which hardwood timber is removed becomes quickly overgrown with young reproduction, and even the fields, unless carefully tended, soon revert to forest through a succession of wild grasses, briers, and young hardwood trees. On account of this persistence of nature in spreading a dense plant and tree covering over the land everywhere, there are provided protective shelters and hiding places for game. Many kinds of plants spring up after forest fires and in uncultivated cleared lands and bear fruit and nuts suitable as food for the wild life of woods and fields. Virgin forests are the favorite haunts of deer and other kinds of the wilder game, but upon the removal of the timber the cut-over areas must be resorted to as the only alternative. Here sufficient food and shelter are found except in areas devastated by fire, and the wild life finally adapts itself to the changed conditions.

Moreover, the extensive areas belonging to this class in West Virginia are rapidly improving from year to year and in time will become almost or quite equal to the virgin forests. The modifying of conditions incident to settlement, and to the removal of forests and other natural resources, has restricted the range of the larger game to the more inaccessible parts of mountainous regions, and that of the smaller game principally to the rougher types of non-agricultural land, forming parts of farms, and of the larger holdings of lumber and coal companies.

The range of most game animals has been further restricted and their numbers greatly reduced by excessive and indiscriminate hunting. Areas embracing many thousands of acres of good game territory are now practically lifeless. What is true of game animals is also true of fish. No other state has streams more suitable for fish, yet in many cases the waters of the rivers and the smaller streams are as devoid of life, as the forests through which they run. The situation, therefore, is one which must be regarded as critical. Only the promptest and most vigorous action upon the part of the State, supplemented by the necessary aid from sportsmen, and others interested in wild life, will accomplish the desired restocking of hunting and fishing grounds. The methods by which this critical condition will be met are briefly discussed in following paragraphs.

Upon taking up its work the immediate matter in the hands of the Game and Fish Commission was the selection of appointment of officers. The employing of office and field men whose fitness for their positions is above doubt was considered to be of first importance and the only positive assurance of success. The organization so far completed is one which should prove to be satisfactory.

By the time of the opening of the game season on September 1st, a sufficient force was stationed in the field to take care of violations in most sections, and this force was increased as the seasons approached for wild turkeys, grouse, and other important game. The services of the State Police were of much benefit, especially in the protection of deer and the control of forest fires.

Time has not yet permitted the putting into operation projects of a far-reaching nature designed to re-establish such game conditions within the state as will insure to sportsmen that which is their due. But plans have been made with sufficient definiteness to enable us to announce the following lines of procedure, which will be begun immediately:

1. Game Refuges. According to provisions of the law, areas will be set aside and designated as game refuges, where absolute protection of all desirable wild life will be attempted. In these areas game will be permitted to propagate and overflow into surrounding hunting territory, forming a perpetual source of supply. While the law permits purchase by the State of lands for this purpose, funds are not yet available for acquiring areas of a size sufficient to consider at present. But already a number of private owners have signified their willingness to grant the use of portions of their forest land for this purpose. These, and other lands, will be examined and when found suitable will be posted, descriptions of the same published, and arrangements made for their proper guarding.

Within such refuges not only the native game will be permitted to breed unmolested, but in some instance ring-necked pheasants and other game birds and animals will be introduced and protected.

2. Closing Streams. As has been indicated, many of the streams of West Virginia which once afforded excellent fishing, have now been fished out or rendered unfit for the habitation of fish. To remedy this condition, especially in respect to trout, the smaller tributaries of several of our mountain rivers will be closed against all fishing for a period of three years. Such tributaries will serve as breeding places and also as supply refuges for the main streams into which they flow.

Other measures for the improvement of fishing in general will be adopted, among which are the regulation of deleterious matter discharged into streams by manufacturing concerns, the placing of fish ladders at all dams, a rigid enforcement of the law against illegal fishing, and the planting of fish obtained from hatcheries.

Forest Fires

As in previous years, an agreement has been entered into with Federal authorities for the cooperative control of forest fires throughout the state. Under this agreement the state is reimbursed for one-half of the funds expended up to about $7,000.00. Protection is secured through dry periods of spring and autumn by observations made from suitably located lookout stations, where watchmen are in constant touch by telephone with a surrounding organization of patrolmen and local protectors.

Two associations of private timber land owners also cooperate with the state in controlling forest fires. These are the Central and the Southern Forest Fire Protective Associations, whose activities in past years have been productive of benefits to the state beyond estimation.

An examination by members of the Commission of some of the lookout stations and the patrol routes under its control discloses a neglected and run-down condition. The watchmen in charge, however, are mostly men having the necessary qualifications and experience and, with proper encouragement, will render satisfactory service.

Extensive improvements in the organization and equipment of the fire fighting force are being planned, but the same have not yet been developed sufficiently to be reported herein.

It is recognized that on the success achieved in the adequate protection of the forests of the state hinges largely the success or failure of bringing back the game and fish, to say nothing of the overshadowing question of the future timber supply, the protection of the volume and purity of the water, and the saving of agriculture and other dependent industries.

Education

The Commission believes that there is the most urgent need for an educational campaign to arouse public sentiment and create a new interest in the protection and development of the states renewable natural resources. Without the willing support of a large majority of the citizens of the State force becomes the only means for accomplishing the ends sought for; but, with their cooperation, the enforcement of the law will be a comparatively simple matter, and the accomplishment of desirable ends, otherwise impossible, will be assured.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE
Game and Fish Commission
OF

1922

DECEMBER 1, 1922

TRIBUNE PRINTING CO., CHARLESTON, W. VA.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1, 1922.

To His Excellency,
Honorable E. F. Morgan,
Governor of West Virginia.

Sir:

We have the honor to present herewith the Second Annual Report of the Game and Fish Commission of West Virginia.

The report covers, in a general way, the work accomplished and begun during the calendar year 1922, including the following: The organization of a force of protectors and wardens for the enforcement of laws regulating hunting, fishing and forest protection; the establishing of seven game refuges, having a total area of 21,000 acres; the setting aside of a large number of fish refuges, and restocking the same and other streams of the state with game fish; the beginning and operation of a game farm; the division of the state into game districts and providing them with protectors for the safety of the game therein; the purchase of five modern steel towers for forest fire detection and equipping them with telephone lines, maps, etc., and otherwise greatly improving the forest fire service; and the carrying on of educational work.

The year's work has given the Commission time and opportunity to discover the overwhelming needs for better protection and wiser use of the State's great natural wealth of scenery, forest, streams, game and other indispensable objects and forms of life. With a more careful consideration of conditions and a study of the work which lies before us, the appalling losses which the State has suffered through past years of her development have been forced upon us and the horizon of our possible usefulness in making amends for these losses has been greatly extended.

We are placing the right of the citizens of the State to the use and enjoyment of her natural resources above every other consideration, knowing that the whole matter transcends everything that savors of selfishness or greed for gain. Our years of exploitation must be followed by years of construction if the State is to continue prosperous; and the time appears to have arrived when conditions make it possible to carry out a constructive policy.

We desire to call special attention to the fact of the awakening of the people of the State to their rights in the possession and enjoyment of that which nature intended for them, and to their disposition to extend assistance in the work of conservation. This new interest is evidenced by the volume of inquiries, suggestions, expressions of approval or disapproval, that come to the Commission, and by the uniting of sportsmen and out-door enthusiasts into independent organizations for the improvement of conditions. This has not come about suddenly, but has been a gradual process through the education of school children to protect and admire and not destroy, and through the ever present object lesson of destruction which the public has at last begun to understand and abhor. The knowledge of this public support of the Commission's work and sincere purposes is sufficiently reassuring to stimulate hope and renewed effort.

While it has been a source of satisfaction that our work has been supported alone by revenues derived from hunting and fishing licenses, we believe, nevertheless, that no object is more worthy the support of all the people than the safeguarding and proper use of the State's natural wealth.

Included in this report are recommendations touching upon a few important interests of the State, the adoption of which, we believe, would tend to strengthen and develop the work of this Commission.

Respectfully,

G. O. YOUNG,

C. A. CABELL,

FRED E. COWL,

of West Virginia.

GAME AND FISH PROTECTION.

The counties of the state have been placed in seven groups forming game districts, in each of which a district game protector resides and is on duty throughout the year. A map included in this report shows the outlines of these districts. Within these areas additional game protectors, some of them working only in hunting and fishing seasons and some throughout the year, are kept moving and on the lookout for game law violators. Every two weeks these protectors are scheduled for certain work, many of them exchanging places for the period. By this means no one protector becomes familiar to those who would evade him, and the uncertainty of the movements of these men makes it uncomfortable and unsafe for violators to operate. As a rule, protectors work outside of the territory where they are known or where they are acquainted with those whom they might meet. This prevents the possibility of favoritism being shown or of familiarity with acquaintances or relations.

The difficulty of securing protectors who are successful in their work is very great. The nature of their employment is such that they are thrown somewhat on their own resources and initiative, working alone and independently during much of the time. The type of man who will follow clues and stick to his task against ever-present difficulties is not easily discovered. A number of valuable "finds" have already been made, however, and within a reasonable time a force of dependable and efficient protectors will have been secured. On the whole, the work of the protectors has been of a high type resulting in an improvement in most localities, as is attested by sportsmen who are in position to contrast past and present conditions.

A sample schedule and a table showing a classified list of violations are included in this report. From an examination of the table it will be seen that the habit of hunting without license has become prevalent. This condition, however, is rapidly changing in all sections where it has been possible to place game protectors, as indicated by the increasing sale of licenses.

GAME REFUGES

The Game and Fish laws authorize the establishment of game refuges in the following language: "The Commission may, with the consent of the owner or owners of any land in this state, set the same, or any part thereof, aside as a game refuge for the propagation or protection of the wild game animals, wild birds or fowl," etc.

In pursuance of this authority the Game and Fish Commission has established the refuges described below:

Beech Run Refuge.

Permission was obtained from the Elkhorn Coal Corporation to establish a game refuge on its lands, using 2,000 acres lying in Randolph County, on the waters of Beech Run, and the Left Fork of the Buckhannon River. This section is reached from Alexander, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and thence by the Croft Lumber Company's lumber railroad to the mouth of Beech Run.

The surface of the refuge is rough and steep, the elevations reaching 3,000 feet, and over. The whole area is in forest, the present cover being principally second-growth hardwoods of good quality. In some parts dense thickets of briars and shrubbery, which shortly will give place to forest trees, cover the ground and form excellent cover for game of different kinds.

The game animals and birds consist of black bears, deer, turkeys, ruffed grouse, gray squirrels, rabbits and quail, all of which, except rabbits, exist in much smaller numbers than formerly. Both deer and bears are rare at present in this locality. The food and cover conditions are unexcelled, insuring an abundant increase during years of protection. The Left Fork of the Buckhannon River, as well as Beech Run and its tributaries, are well adapted to trout propagation and are at present fairly well stocked.

Paint Creek Refuge.

The Paint Creek Refuge, containing about 10,000 acres, includes lands of the Carbon Fuel Co., Paint Creek Coal Mining Co., Imperial Colliery Co., Christian Colliery Co., Milburn By-Products Co., Solvay Colliery Co., and others, in Kanawha, Fayette and Raleigh counties. It lies between Paint and Cabin Creeks, tributaries of the Great Kanawha River, and extends on the south to Clear Fork of Coal River. The refuge is reached from Cabin Creek Junction, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, and thence over the Cabin Creek branch of said railroad to Eskdale, Carbon, or other nearby stations.

The surface is steep and hilly, with narrow valleys in which are swift-flowing streams. The elevations range from about 1,200 feet to 3,000 feet. Practically the entire area is wooded with second growth trees, such as oaks, chestnut, locust, yellow poplar, and other broad-leaved species. Protection from fire is given the area by forest fire observatories located at Lick Knob, on the southern end, and Johnson's Knob, near the northern end.

Game animals and birds, once so plentiful within this area, have become greatly reduced in numbers through excessive and unregulated hunting by foreigners and others, through forest fires and the prevalence of predatory animals. It is expected, however, that within a reasonably short time, the former game conditions will be restored.

French Creek Refuge.

A tract of approximately 1,000 acres belonging to a group of small owners on Little Bush Run, a tributary of French Creek, in Upshur County, has been established as a refuge for the smaller game. The area includes the farm upon which the Commission is at present raising ringnecked pheasants and other game birds. It is reached from Adrian on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and thence by county road about  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles.

The section embraced by this refuge is one of rounded hills, is well watered, and contains woods and fields, many of the latter containing "broom sedge" and other cover for quail and rabbits. The wooded portions are largely covered with nut trees, such as beech, oaks, hickory, black walnut, and chestnut, all producing food for both animals and birds.

Game of all kinds once existed in this section but the settling of the country, with its usual effect on outdoor life, resulted in the practical extinction of everything in the way of desirable game, except here and there a single pair of grouse, quail or gray squirrels. About ten years ago, however, two farmers living on adjoining lands within the area posted their farms against hunting and trapping, thus establishing what has been in effect a diminutive game refuge. During the ten years no hunting has been done, either by the owners or other persons, except that rabbits have been killed during open seasons. Vermine, including foxes, weasels, and destructive species of hawks, have been destroyed whenever possible.

No domestic dogs or cats have been kept on these farms and stray cats have not been allowed to remain in the vicinity. The results of this protection have been most satisfactory and the same is here pointed out as an indication of what may be expected, on a larger scale, in the case of State refuges. In no other place in the State are gray squirrels so plentiful. A conservative estimate made during the past fall placed the number of these animals at five hundred. Other small game is also plentiful, though the greatest increase has been that of squirrels. The overflow from this area has resulted in the restocking of the woodlands of the surrounding communities.

Tibbs Run Refuge.

An artificial lake or reservoir, with 100 acres of surrounding woodland belonging to the Union Utilities Company, of Morgantown, West Virginia, has been set aside as a water fowl and game refuge. The area is located on Tibbs Run, a tributary of Deckers Creek, in Monongalia County. It can be reached by automobile from Morgantown, the distance being about three miles.

During the spring and fall migrations various kinds of ducks and other water birds use this reservoir as a resting and feeding place, and it was chiefly for their protection that the area was selected and set aside.

Jackson's Mill Refuge.

A tract of land, on which is located the "Stonewall" Jackson Mill, recently purchased by the State as a site for camps of the 4-H Clubs, together with a few surrounding farms, constitute the Jackson's Mill Refuge, containing about 2,000 acres. The refuge is reached from Weston, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, thence to Jackson's Mill by trolley.

Hills and wide bottom lands, having mixed woods and fields, characterize this area.

The game here is, at present, found in small quantities, except that in one small wood-lot squirrels are plentiful, having received protection for several years. Quail are also common in places. The section is well sued to small game propagation. The protection and increase of all kinds of wild life are especially desired on account of the interest of the same to the many young people of the state who spend a portion of the summer here.

Petersburg Refuge.

The Petersburg Refuge includes about 2,000 acres of mixed pine and hardwood forest land lying in a hilly section adjacent to the village of Petersburg, Grant County. The South Branch of the Potomac River flows on the west side of the refuge for some distance. This section is reached by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The surface, cover, food, and all other conditions are ideal for the existence for small game, including wild turkeys, which are found there at present in small numbers. A colony of ringnecked pheasants introduced on the refuge during the present year are reported in good condition.

Lakin State Refuge.

Land owners living near the village of Terra Alta, Preston County, are cooperating with the Commission in establishing and maintaining a game refuge of about 4,000 acres. This is an elevated region embraced in the Alleghany plateau, and one admirably adapted to the propagation of many species of both large and small game. It is reached by a main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The surface of the area is rolling and hilly upland, is partly covered by scrubby second growth of hardwoods and shrubbery, partly by a better growth of timber, and also includes areas of pasture lands and cultivated fields.

The territory embraced by this refuge once formed a portion of a hunting ground famed among pioneers. The inroads which were early made on the herds of deer and other big game were followed by intensive hunting during the period of settlement. The result here produced, as in other places, was the extermination of all big game and the reduction of many kinds of small game, almost to the vanishing point. Grouse, quail, and gray squirrels have persisted in limited numbers, however, and with adequate protection will increase rapidly under the favorable natural conditions that prevail in this locality.

Designating Refuge Boundaries.

In order that hunters, and the public generally, may know of the establishing of the refuges and of their exact locations, descriptions of the same are published in one or more county newspapers in each of the counties where the refuges are located, and placard notices of the fact of such refuges are posted at frequent intervals along their boundary lines. In the case of forest refuges not surrounded by streams, roads, or other natural boundary lines, a single wire will be strung about them. This will be placed in such a position that hunters cannot fail to be guided thereby, and will be at such a height as not to prevent the coming and going of deer and other large game.

Guarding the Refuges.

Special attention is given the refuge areas by game protectors who are scheduled and instructed to make frequent inspections. Those who hunt at any time on refuges are liable to fine and imprisonment.

The State Department of Public Safety is cooperating with the Game & Fish Commission in the protection of these areas, as well as other places, and has prepared posters which will be placed alongside those of the Commission about the refuges.

Vermin on Refuges.

The question of extermination of vermin, such as foxes, wild cats, weasels, and the like, living on the refuges, is one which will receive due attention. The increase of game in any section likewise means the multiplication of its natural enemies, thus producing a condition which, if left without attention, would defeat the purpose of the refuge.

The Commission is authorized by law to provide for the killing of non-protected birds and animals of prey, and it is under this authority that systematic steps will be taken to provide against undue loss from this source.

Attitude of the Public Toward Refuges.

The successful protection and propagation of game in any refuge would be defeated by an unsympathetic attitude on the part of the public, but such is not the case at present. Many more areas have been offered the Commission for this purpose than its employees have yet had time to examine. In places where refuges have been established residents thereabouts are inclined to observe the law and are anxious to assist in making the undertaking a success. In some cases sportsmen have donated their services in putting up posters and helping with surveys, and in one case, that of the Paint Creek Refuge, The Carbon Fuel Company volunteered the expense and work of painting a line around the entire 10,000 acres.

Extension of Refuges.

It is impossible to state at this time what number of additional refuges will be established, but sites will be examined in a number of new places and, if conditions warrant, the necessary action will be taken for setting them aside. Many important game sections as yet have no refuges. It will be the aim to distribute the refuges over the State, geographically and according to game conditions, in such a way as will best serve the interests of all.

Prospective State-Owned Refuges.

The Game & Fish Commission is permitted by law to purchase "lands suitable for forest culture or game and fish preserves". West Virginia contains as high a percentage of non-agricultural land, suitable primarily for the purposes above, as any state east of the Mississippi River, yet all of such lands are at present privately owned, except that belonging to National forests. The present obstacle in the way of procuring such lands is the lack of funds, the whole amount received being required for the regular routine of protective and propagation work.

Maps and Descriptions of Refuges.

A map included in this report shows the location of the seven refuges set aside to date. More complete maps and descriptions of these are on file in the office of the Commission.

FISH REFUGES

Because of excessive and illegal fishing, the pollution of streams, the clearing of land, and the logging operations in the State, several of the native game fish were found to be so greatly reduced in numbers at the beginning of the work of the commission that fishermen had abandoned numerous streams as unfit for pleasant or profitable sport. It was recognized that vigorous action must be taken, especially in behalf of species of trout, in order to restock the streams that had become so depleted. Accordingly, a number of streams and parts of streams were closed against all fishing for a period of three years. The closed streams, which are principally small tributaries of creeks and rivers, will be the breeding places for fish and will become the feeders of the larger streams. Requests from many persons throughout the State for the closing of additional streams indicates the popularity of this work and the necessity for its continuance. A list of the closed streams is included in this report.

FISH PROPAGATION AND PLANTING.

West Virginia has no fish hatcheries of its own, but the Government hatchery, located at White Sulphur Springs, has, during the past year, hatched eggs which the Commission purchased, and has taken care of the fry until they were ready for distribution, without cost to the State. About 125,000 brook trout were propagated in this way and were placed in streams during the past spring months. In addition 110,000 rainbow trout, donated by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, were placed in the waters of Elk and Potomac rivers.

Other fish, obtained from the Government through applications of fishermen, were planted in the streams of the State. A list of these plantings is given herein.

SALVAGING OF TROUT

The State experienced one of the worst droughts in its history during the past summer, the smaller streams in nearly all sections drying up and leaving the fish therein stranded on dry ground. Special crews of men were employed in some places to transfer fish from shallow to deep pools; and practically all game protectors were instructed to devote a large part of their time to this work during the dry period. Interested citizens in many sections also helped with this work. Many thousands of fish were saved in this way.

WATER POLLUTION

Over large areas in West Virginia the streams, once pure, are now poisoned by acids and other polluting materials to such an extent that fish and other water-inhabiting creatures cannot live therein. Tanneries, pulp mills, tin mills, chemical plants, coal mines, and other agencies, each contributes some polluting substance. Certain companies are provided with devices for filtering or otherwise lessening pollution and others remain without such provision.

The record of the convictions herein shows the action taken in certain cases but does not indicate the full amount of work done toward purifying of streams. Much has been accomplished through co-operation. Coal companies and manufacturing concerns are signifying their willingness to install equipment for the purification or disposition of their polluting materials.

PHEASANT BREEDING

Early in the spring of 1922 the first attempt by the State to breed game birds was begun on a tract of privately-owned land located one mile south of the village of French Creek, Upshur County. A manager was selected and placed in charge of this work. A combination breeding and storage house was built, and a number of coops, runways, pens, and other necessary equipment were prepared. Since ring-necked pheasants had proven most successful in other states it was decided to breed this variety alone. About 100 medium-sized hens were purchased and 750 eggs ordered from a Pennsylvania game farm. The eggs were shipped in lots as needed and were set under hens. The hatch was satisfactory, being between 65 and 70 per cent. The young pheasants were strong and vigorous but many of them died between the ages of five days and two weeks, as is usual with this bird. The diseases common to young pheasants were fairly well combatted and a higher percentage of the number hatched would have been reared except for the fact that a number of the hens proved to be poor care takers of their flocks, some of them devouring the young birds as fast as they were hatched.

Following is a list of the pheasants distributed to applicants. A more scattered distribution would have been made except for the fact that applications were not received from many sections:

Forty birds are being kept at the game farm for breeding purposes. The balance of the pheasants raised, about 26, are at large in the section surrounding the farm, which is a part of the French Creek Game Refuge.

Pheasant eggs, purchased and supplied to applicants free of charge, were distributed as follows:

All pheasants shipped by express were placed in crates with burlap covers and all reached their destinations in good condition. Reports indicate that all birds are adapting themselves to their surroundings and bid fair to survive the winter.

The benefits to be derived from distribution of game birds are three-fold, namely, the much-needed increase of game in the State, the stimulating of interest in wild life, and an increased respect for the efforts of the Game and Fish Commission to re-establish satisfactory game conditions.

A pair of Amherst pheasants was donated by the State of Maryland, through Chief Game Warden Mr. E. Lee LeCompte, and are on display at the farm. The State of New York has offered a number of fancy pheasant eggs for hatching the coming year. Such breeds as Golden Pheasant, Reeves Pheasant and Silver Pheasant are desirable to keep at a game farm where persons come to examine the plant and admire the birds.

FOREST PROTECTION

The nature of the forest land of the State is such that in nearly all places outside of the region of spruce and other cone-bearing trees, there grows up a good natural reproduction when the original stand is removed, provided fires are kept out. In past years there has been an almost constant scourge of fire accompanying logging operations and other forest industries that has laid waste large areas of once valuable forest. All except the worst of these areas, however, will again become forested through a natural rotation of vegetation, if left without interference.

There are approximately nine million acres of forest land in the State needing protection from fire. Of this acreage about one-third receives protection through a co-operative agreement with the Federal Government and with private owners. The Government contributes annually $10,500.00, provided the State spends an equal or larger amount; and private owners having a combined area of about a million acres, contribute at the rate of one cent per acre annually, a part of which is spent in direct co-operation with the State and part spent independently. The Central Protective Association, located in the mountainous counties of Central West Virginia, spends money derived from a 500,000 acreage in the same territory occupied by lookout watchmen employed by the State. The Southern Protective Association co-operates directly with the Commission and with it is working out a complete system of protection. The newly organized Eastern Association will also co-operate directly with the Commission.

The State's equipment for fire control, at the beginning of the year, consisted of some sixteen wooden lookout stations located on mountain tops, with a watchman for each, and with telephone lines and other equipment. Most of the stations, lines, and equipment were found in a run-down and comparatively ineffective condition. In addition to the lookout stations there were several patrolmen employed during dry weather in fall and spring, the majority of which were paid by the protective associations.

There are now twenty-six lookout stations, five being steel towers (some of which are not yet erected), five preliminary lookouts, with temporary stations and telephone lines, one new wooden tower, and the balance old towers, most of which have been repaired and better equipped.

The steel towers purchased by the Commission in June, were delivered in November and are now on the mountains ready for erection, one having been completed and the cement foundations placed for three others. Their locations are Backbone Mountain, in the east-central section; Parting Springs and Bald Knob, also in the central section, Gauley Mountain and Stop Knob, in the Kanawha section. Title to one acre of land for each station was secured for Backbone, Gauley and Stop Knob, and title will be acquired by the State at each new tower location. The titles have, so far been given free of cost. A wooden station, sixty feet high, has been built and equipped at Johnson's Knob, south of the Kanawha River.

Several of the new stations are in view from State roads. Attention will be given to making all new stations not only modern and effective in every way, but attractive and of value to those who may visit them.

Standard telephone circuits were built to each of the permanent and preliminary lookout stations, except that at Williams Hill. Trees were cleared for the use of each observer until such a time as permanent towers can be built. The locations of the temporary stations are as follows: Williams Hill, Elk Knob, and Round Knob, in the Kanawha section; Pilot Knob in the Pocahontas section, and Lukins Hill, in the east-central section.

The new towers and preliminary stations established increase the protected area by more than 850,000 acres.

Twenty-five miles of old telephone line were entirely rebuilt and 24½ miles of new line constructed, making 49½ miles of line erected since June, 1922. These lines are of standard pole construction, built of the best materials available for this work, are equal to any company lines, and are permanent.

Slightly over 150,000 acres have been added to the area of co-operation, making an increase of income amounting to over $1,500.00 annually. In addition to this there is an area of indefinite size to come in under the new Eastern Association, which completes its organization early in the coming year.

Four new patrols were established during the past fall fire season, increasing the protected area by about 60,000 acres. About 200 local fire wardens, who serve without pay, have been appointed, some of which have not yet qualified.

In contrast with the past two years, both the spring and fall fire seasons of 1922 were very dry, with many forest fires resulting.

The forest fire tables, included in this report, contain full data so far as it was reported, of the number and size of fires, the damage, etc.

Outside of the protected area fires ran for weeks without any attempt being made to check them. The total acreage burned over or the loss cannot be stated.

EDUCATIONAL WORK

Education was recognized from the beginning as one of the principal means by which the public could be induced to give willing support for the work of the Commission. At the outset, therefore, the following lines of education were begun, and carried on through the year:

Newspaper Publicity

A publicity agent was employed to devote a part of his time to getting before the public the activities of game protectors and other employes of the Commission and to preparing articles dealing with the State's natural resources, and the initiation of foundation work begun by the Commission. During a part of the year mimeographed copies of game notes were sent out from the office to all newspapers in the State.

Sportsmen's Organizations

Realizing the value of organizations among sportsmen and other conservationists, the Commission has stood behind the newly-organized Wild Life League of West Virginia; and, while having no official connection with the same, is assisting it in promoting the organization. The League seeks to combine all clubs having similar aims into one state-wide organization, and to establish branches in every community. It is actively interested in all conservation work in the State and will help to carry on the work in which the Game and Fish Commission is engaged. Plans are under way for the publication of a magazine devoted to outdoor life, which will be the official organ of the League.

Lectures, Meetings and Articles

The chairman of the Commission and its chief officers have devoted some time to giving lectures on the Commission's work, some of which have been illustrated with lantern slides showing scenery and wild life. Many meetings have been attended, including those of the State Horticultural Society, the Wild Life League, University Horticultural Students, State Sheriffs' Association, as well as meetings of the National Game Protective Association, and conference of state forest fire co-operators.

A meeting of the game protectors and fire wardens was called in Charleston for December 8th, at which an opportunity was given for instructions, the comparing of notes, and the offering of suggestions.

Special articles on phases of the Commission's work have been prepared for publication in newspapers, magazines and game bulletins.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The following general recommendations are made after a careful study of game, fish, and forest conditions, and the same are believed to be in accord with the views of a great majority of the good sportsmen and others interested in the improvement of outdoor conditions in West Virginia:

1. Because of the present scarcity of game and the improvement of facilities for taking the same, including the building of roads and the increase in number of automobiles and fire arms, the open hunting seasons on all game should be shortened and should begin and end on the same date.

2. Certain animals, including raccoon, beaver and snowshoe hare, which are becoming rare in many places, should be made game animals, and protected during a part of the year.

3. The open season for hunting deer should not be longer than ten days and each person should be limited to the killing of one buck deer per season.

4. The Commission feels that any further recommendations at this time would be a mistake, for the reason that the present law has only been in operation for eighteen months, and that the merits of many of the Commission's policies have not had time to be thoroughly proven, nor has the public had the time to become familiar with much the Commission is attempting to do. We feel that the citizens of the State should have time to become acquainted with the operation of the law under the Commission for at least one year from this date, before any other specific recommendations are made.

STATE GAME REFUGE

HUNTING IS UNLAWFUL

WHEREAS, under and by virtue of section 8 of Chapter 116 of the Acts of the Legislature, 1921, Regular Session, the Game and Fish Commission of West Virginia, is authorized and empowered, with the consent of the owner or owners of any land in this State to set the same, or any part thereof, aside as a game refuge for the propagation or protection of wild game animals and wild birds or fowl; and,

WHEREAS, the Commission deems it expedient that the lands included within the boundaries hereinafter set forth be designated and set aside as a game refuge for the propagation and protection of the wild game animals and wild birds or fowl thereon, or which may hereafter come or be placed thereon, and having secured the consent of the owners of the land within said boundaries for this purpose.

It is, therefore, ordered, that on and after DECEMBER 8th, 1922, and until a period of TEN years from that date shall have elapsed, the lands enclosed within the following designated boundary lines shall be set aside and maintained as a game refuge for the propagation and protection of any wild game animals, wild birds or fowl which may be upon said lands, that is to say, the lands bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

A TRACT OF LAND CONTAINING APPROXIMATELY FOUR THOUSAND ACRES, (4000) SITUATE NEAR TERRA ALTA, PRES-
TON COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, AND BOUNDED AS FOLLOWS: BEGINNING, AT A POINT WHERE THE CRANESVILLE ROAD
LEAVES THE STATE HIGHWAY AT THE EASTERN SIDE OF THE VILLAGE OF TERRA ALTA, WEST VIRGINIA, AND RUNNING THENCE, WITH SAID CRANESVILLE ROAD, NORTHWARD ABOUT ONE AND A HALF MILES TO THE OAK GROVE ROAD; THENCE WITH SAID OAK GROVE ROAD ABOUT ONE-HALF MILE TO A ROAD LEADING TO THE BRANDONVILLE PIKE; THENCE WITH SAID ROAD TO THE POINT WHERE IT CROSSES SNOWY CREEK, NEAR THE RESIDENCE OF J. ALLEN DODGE; THENCE UP SAID SNOWY CREEK TO THE LAND OF D. W. SEAL, AND WITH HIS WEST AND NORTH BOUNDARY LINES TO THE OAK GROVE ROAD, THENCE WITH SAID ROAD TO THE BURCHINAL ROAD, AND WITH SAID ROAD TO THE MARYLAND-
WEST VIRGINIA BOUNDARY LINE, THENCE SOUTH WITH SAID STATE LINE TO THE OLD STATE ROAD, AND WITH SAID ROAD TO THE IMPROVED STATE HIGHWAY; THENCE WITH SAID HIGHWAY TO THE BEGINNING.

During the time aforesaid for which said designated boundary of land so set aside as a Game Refuge is maintained as such, no person shall hunt, pursue, kill or catch thereon any wild game or non-game animals, or any wild birds or fowl.

The Chief Game Protector, and all other game protectors, Sheriff, Deputy Sheriffs, Constables, and state police having jurisdiction over the tract of land herein set aside as a Game Refuge, are hereby ordered to enforce the provisions of this order in the same manner as the laws relating to forestry, game and fish are enforced, and the public generally is notified hereby, that by virtue of the law in such cases made and provided, anyone violating the provisions of this order by hunting, pursuing, killing or catching on said land while so set aside a Game Refuge, any wild game or non-game animals or wild birds or fowl, upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten, nor more than one hundred dollars or by confinement in jail not less than ten nor more than one hundred days, or by both fine and imprisonment within the limitations aforesaid, for, each offense.

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA.

STATE FISH REFUGE

FISHING

In This Stream Is Unlawful

WHEREAS, under and by virtue of Section 38 of Chapter 116 of the Acts of the Legislature 1921, Regular Session the Game and Fish Commission of West Virginia, is authorized and empowered to suspend and prohibit for certain and definite fixed periods the catching of fish in any stream or parts of streams in this State, and

WHEREAS, the Commission deems it expedient that fishing be suspended and prohibited in the streams hereinafter designated and that said streams should be closed against all fishing for a certain definite period of time.

It is therefore ordered that on and after the first day of February, 1922, and until a period of three years from that date shall have elapsed, the following designated streams shall be closed against all fishing, and that fishing therein shall be suspended and prohibited for the period aforesaid, that is to say the following streams situate in POCAHONTAS..... County, to-wit:

SOUTH FORK OF CHERRY RIVER FROM THE POINT WHERE COLD KNOB FORK EMPTIES INTO SAID STREAM IN NICHOLAS COUNTY, TO ITS SOURCE IN GREENBRIER COUNTY, INCLUDING ALL ITS TRIBUTARIES.

During the time aforesaid for which designated streams are closed against fishing, no person shall fish for, pursue, catch or kill any fish in said streams so closed.

The Chief Game Protector and all other game protectors, sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables and state police having jurisdiction over said streams herein closed against fishing, are hereby ordered to enforce the provisions of this order in the same manner as the laws relating to forestry, game and fish are enforced, and the public generally are notified hereby, that by virtue of the law in such cases made and provided, anyone violating the provisions of this order by fishing for, catching or killing any fish in said streams herein before designated upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, and may be confined in the County jail for the period of 60 days or both, by such fine and imprisonment.

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA.

EXAMINATIONS

No domestic insurance companies were examined by the insurance Department, either alone or in conjunction with any other Department, from May 1st, 1921, to April 1st, 1922, as nearly all the West Virginia companies were examined in 1920.

REVIEW

The following statistical tables contain valuable information pertaining to the Insurance Department and the insurance companies licensed to do business in West Virginia. They review as far as possible the insurance business in West Virginia from 1871 to 1921 inclusive:

INSURANCE DEPARTMENT RECEIPTS

Statements by years of the taxes paid to the State of West Virginia by insurance companies from 1871 to 1921 inclusive. The large increase in 1908 was occasioned by a change in the law requiring companies to pay a tax of two per cent. on premiums receipts, instead of tax on the amount of risks written:

Prior to March 4, 1905, all license fees paid by insurance companies for the privilege of doing business in this State accrued to the Auditor as a part of his compensation for performing the duties of his office. It is, therefore, impossible to give the amounts paid on this account for the years preceding that date. The following fees have been collected from insurance companies and paid into the State Treasury since March 4, 1905:

1905.....$	6,307.50	1913.....$	48,171.50

1912.....	44,737.23	1920.....	56,022.00
		1921.....	63,121.25

The Legislature of 1905 enacted a law requiring all foreign corporations to appoint the Auditor attorney to accept service of process, which law, also, provided a fee of $10.00 per annum to be paid by such corporations into the State Treasury. The following has been paid by insurance companies since May 1, 1905:

1905.....$	1,820.00	1913.....$	2,931.67

GENERAL REMARKS

The business of the Insurance Department of the State of West Virginia has grown by leaps and bounds during the past fifteen years.

Since the formation of the Insurance Department of the Auditor's Office in 1905, the income from this department in taxes has grown from $58,802.85 in 1905 to $462,127.43 at the close of 1921. In 1905 about 180 companies were admitted to do business in the state and in 1921 the Insurance Department had jurisdiction and supervision over 428 companies of various kinds. In spite of the large increase in taxes and the work of this office, the expenses of the office have been kept down to a minimum, so that the expenses for 1921 of the Insurance Department were only $12,887.75. This is only about one-third of the expense of other states doing the same amount of business. The 428 companies in 1921 did an increasing business over 1920 and employed over 10,000 agents in the state. The 215 United States and foreign fire companies in 1921 wrote $724,608,446.87 of insurance on property in West Virginia. Their premiums collected were $7,718,825.94 and their losses incurred were $4,265,449.69, making a loss ratio of 55.26%. This was an increase in the loss ratio over 1920 of 8%. This increase in the loss ratio, however, was not peculiar to the State of West Virginia, but seemed to be general throughout the United States during the year 1921. The life companies in this state wrote $98,939,490.09 and the fraternal companies wrote $12,644,071.00 of insurance on the lives of the citizens of West Virginia in 1921. This was approximately $1,000,000.00 less than in 1920, but the premiums collected were larger than in 1920 by almost $2,000,000.00 and the losses of both life and fraternal companies were less than in 1920, averaging only 20.56% for the life companies. The mortality of the life companies was therefore, very favorable in 1921 and they had a very successful year.

The miscellaneous companies, including casualty, fidelity and surety, received $3,020,092.36 in premiums, being an increase of nearly $500,000.00, and paid losses of $1,062,597.25 or a loss ratio of 35.12%. This was a good showing and was the largest business written by this class of companies in this state, so that all of the companies of various kinds had a net increase in the volume of business and in premiums collected over 1920, making it the largest year in the history of insurance in this state. This naturally imposed heavy duties and responsibilities on this department in supervising these companies and safe-guarding the interests of the insuring public and looking after the licensing and the supervision of their large agency force.

While fire insurance companies wrote a slightly smaller business than in 1920 and collected less premiums, the large loss ratio did not allow them to make any money from their business in this state, and as long as the loss ratio is as large as it is, we cannot look for lower rates. Fire companies paid for losses in West Virginia in 1921 $4,389,402.86, but this does not represent more than three-fourths value of the insurance loss and does not represent the loss on un-insured property or under-insured property; so that the fire loss in this state for 1921 was in excess of $7,000,000.00. This is an enormous annual loss to the property of this state; and when you consider that 75% of it is due to carelessness and could be avoided, it seems little short of a crime. Under the laws enacted by the Legislature of 1921, text books have been introduced by the Fire Marshal Department into our public schools to teach fire prevention, and the Fire Marshal's Department has been very active in co-operating with the various fire departments of the cities and towns of the state to eliminate as far as possible the hazards incident to accumulation of trash and dilapidated structures. We confidently look, therefore, in the future to see an improvement in the fire loss in this state. When the public is aroused to the fact that their insurance rates depend upon the fire loss in this state and that they can prevent the same by ordinary care, they will see that it is to their interest to prevent fires and guard against them.

Life insurance companies had the most favorable year in 1921 in the history of the state. While the volume of business written was not as large as in 1920, yet the premiums collected were nearly $2,000,000.00 more and the losses paid were less than in 1920; and there is now in force in this state nearly $400,000,000.00 of insurance on the lives of the people. The gradual improvement of the business in the country has increased the value of the stocks and bonds held by life companies and has greatly helped to increase their assets and to stabilize their reserves. The mortality experience of 1921 has been the most favorable in the United States and in West Virginia of any year in the history of life insurance, so much so, that many of the actuaries of life companies are holding that these conditions are due to improved methods and that human life is lengthening. If business conditions continue to improve during 1922, I see no reason why life companies ought not to do an increasingly large and profitable business in this state.

Fraternal companies had a more successful year in 1921 than even in 1920. While they wrote a little less business than in 1920, yet the premiums received were larger and they also had a very favorable mortality record and they have approximately $80,000,000.00 of insurance written on the lives of the citizens of this state. Nearly all of these fraternal have readjusted their rates under the Mobile law, and their valuation reports for 1921 show a higher percentage of assets to liabilities and indicate that these fraternal are all reaching a sound business basis. Four or five larger fraternal have taken advantage of the Act of 1919, permitting the writing of juvenile insurance, and, so far as the Department can ascertain, the writing of this class of insurance seems to be a success, and the fraternal are keeping it separately, both as to their income and reserves, so that they are safeguarding it in every way. The bill known as the Richmond Bill has been suggested in Virginia and has been advocated before the Convention of National Insurance Commissioners which would require fraternal companies to segregate their assets and have separate funds for different classes of policies and ages of their members. This would in effect place fraternal upon the same basis as life insurance companies. We do not advocate this bill for West Virginia, as it seems to us that it does away with the fraternal feature of these companies and does not allow the younger members to help to bear the infirmities of the older. This would not be "Fraternalism" as we understand it.

Casualty and miscellaneous companies, including fidelity and surety companies, show a distinct gain in the volume of their business of nearly a half million dollars for 1921. This class of business is growing rapidly both in health and accident insurance and in various other lines, including automobile and surety bonds. More contested claims come before this department from this class of insurance than all of the others combined, as so many claims arise from health and accident policies. While this department does not act as a court, nor attempt to pass upon claims of this character, we have used our good offices to act as a friend of both parties and have helped to adjust a great number of these claims to the satisfaction evidently of all parties concerned. The greatest trouble arises from the fact that so many of these policies are cheap and limited, which cover only certain kinds of accidents or diseases and a policy holder does not understand this when he buys them.

We believe the agency force of the companies in this state will rank as high in character as those of any other state in the union. Few charges have been filed against agents, and none have been tried during the past year for delinquency. A number of complaints have arisen by companies against agents for failure to settle for the premiums collected by them and this is undoubtedly due to a lax system which has grown up in this state and other states by allowing credits for insurance to run along for an indefinite time without cancelling the policies. An effort is being made in this state among the insurance agents themselves, through their associations, to remedy some of these evils. There ought to be a law in this state making it embezzlement or grand larceny specifically for an agent to fail to remit balances due to his company and to keep and convert the same to his own use.

The new laws passed by the Legislature of 1921 have now been in full force and effect for nearly one year and have been very successful. The law permitting fidelity and surety companies to qualify without making a special deposit, providing they have a paid up capital of over $600,000.00, has brought into the state some seven or eight additional strong fidelity and surety companies, thus increasing the competition in that line.

The non-resident broker's law has been very successful, and during the year ending February 28th, 1922, ninety-three brokers qualified under said law, and paid $1,121.67 in fees. The year 1922 will show an increase in the number of these brokers and in the amount of fees received. It has eliminated the business that has been written in the past by these brokers without qualification and without the business having been brokered to a West Virginia agent and he receiving his share of the commission.

Considerable controversy arose over the amendment to Section 73 in regard to the 2% tax to be paid by all foreign Insurance companies doing business in this state. The Legislature of 1921 stated that all such companies "should pay a sum equal to 2% of the gross premiums received by them on the business written or renewed in this state, less premiums returnable for cancellation, and including any so-called dividends on participating life insurance policies actually applied in the reduction of premiums." For years life companies have insisted that they should not pay this 2% tax on dividends allowed their policy holders in the reduction of premiums. They also insisted that it was the intention of Chapter 129 of the Acts of 1921, Section 73, not to include these dividends. The Act, however, passed by the Legislature of 1921 specifically included these dividends and we have collected the 2% tax thereon, although many of the life companies have paid the same under protest. We feel that the law should remain as it is, and that, inasmuch as insurance companies no longer pay an excise tax in this state, these dividends which they keep as a part of the premiums due on policies in this state are a part of their gross premiums each year and should be taxed.

Closer supervision has been exercised by the department this year over the rate making associations doing business in this state, and Chapter 149 of the Acts of 1921 has helped us in so doing. There can still be great improvement along these lines. Considerable complaints have been made to this office about the high rates in unprotected towns and villages and on outlying risks; but in view of the loss ratio and the experience of fire companies, there is not much hope of reducing the rates until fires are less frequent in the state. Prompt investigation is made in every case where discrimination is claimed or where rates are held to be oppressive.

The Blue Sky Department was administered as a part of the Insurance Department up to July 1st, 1921, when, on account of the increase of business in that department and the passage of the amendment of this law, increasing the fees, it was made a separate department under the Auditor's Office, and will be reported separately.

In general, the year of 1921 has been a busy and successful year in the Insurance Department. The public is increasingly using it for information upon all kinds of insurance matters and concerning the adjustment of claims and the stability and character of companies admitted to do business in this state. We trust that the insuring public in the future will make use of this department freely and that we will be able to render the fullest possible service to this growing and increasing branch of business in this state.
